Signs of the season

METUCHEN — The Metuchen Area Chamber of Commerce holds its Winter Festival this week. The 53rd annual Winter Festival Parade is on Sunday. The theme of this year's parade is "Children of the World." Solaris Health System/JFK Medical Center is delighted to once again be the principal sponsor of this fun-filled family event. Renaissance Properties Inc. (Silver Sponsor), Black Belt Institute and Common Interests Inc. (Bronze Sponsors) all invite you to celebrate the children of the world. The parade begins at 2 p.m. from Brunswick Avenue and Main Street. Participants will travel north on Main and turn onto New Street to end at the Pearl Street parking lot. A visit with Santa Claus at the Metuchen Senior Center follows the parade with hot chocolate provided by the Recreation Department. If the weather is questionable, call (732) 548-2964 or visit www.metuchenchamber.com after 11 a.m. for an update. The Winter Festival Tree lighting ceremony is at 7 p.m. Friday. For more information, call (732) 548-2964.

Main Street group honors volunteers

HIGHLAND PARK — Main Street Highland Park took time away from promoting the downtown to show its appreciation to the Highland Park volunteers whose efforts over the past year have done so much for the renaissance of Highland Park's downtown and the organization. Mayor Meryl Frank, along with the Main Street Highland Park board of directors and staff, gathered recently at Charlie Brown's Steakhouse on Raritan Avenue to officially recognize its many volunteers with awards of appreciation.

Those given particular mention were:

— Duane Beers, who received the 2006 Outstanding Contribution Award for his tireless work and long tenure as chairman of the Promotions Committee.
 — Debbie Convery and Elizabeth McCandlish, co-recipients of the Volunteer of the Year Award for the Organization Committee.

— Ira Grasgreen, honored as Volunteer of the Year from the Design Committee.

— Michael Ritz, named the Volunteer of the Year for the Promotions Committee.

Diocese names marketing head

The Most Rev. Paul G. Bootkoski, bishop of the Diocese of Metuchen, has appointed Peter Connolly to a new marketing position in the diocese. Connolly will serve as director of Marketing for the diocese and as executive vice president, chief marketing officer for Saint Peter's University Hospital.

Peter Connolly

A high level marketing professional, Connolly had implemented programs that have transcended a wide range of industries and resulted in significant growth and increased revenue.

"These are challenging times for our diocese as well as our hospital. We need someone of Peter's caliber to enhance our efforts and position us for the 21st century," Bishop Bootkoski said. "This year our diocese celebrates its 25th anniversary and next year our hospital will be 100 years old, so we are pleased Peter has joined us now."

In the diocese, Connolly will assist in a broad range of new initiatives. At Saint Peter's, he will be responsible for advertising, public relations, government relations, research, strategic planning, network development, community outreach, customer service and fund-raising.

Ronald Rak, chairman of the board of trustees at Saint Peter's and general secretary for the diocese, called Connolly the marketing expert who will bring a new dynamic to both the diocese and the hospital. "Peter has served admirably on the board of the hospital for the past two years, so we are very pleased that a man of his talent will be working for us full-time," Rak said. "We have a broad agenda to accomplish and Peter will play a critical role in developing that agenda."

On Diocesan matters Connolly will report to the Bishop and Rak, who is general secretary for Administrative and Legal Services for the Diocese, and at Saint Peter's to Rak.

For the past eight years, Connolly was president of Worldwide Marketing and Communications with the Tommy Hilfiger Corporation. Previously he held several senior level marketing positions including, senior vice president of World Wide Marketing at Polo Ralph Lauren; senior vice president of Marketing at CNBC Television Network and chief marketing officer for Ikea North America.

Over the years, Connolly's marketing and communications programs have garnered national and international coverage, as well as recognition in both the consumer and trade press.

Sheryl Slonim, president and chief executive officer of Saint Peter's, said that she is looking forward to working with Connolly. "Peter's impressive skills and vast expertise will ensure that all our efforts will resonate with our various constituencies."

Connolly is a graduate of Boston College. He lives in Cranbury with his wife, Susan, and their two children, Jackie and Thomas.

Santa talks with Peyton Moore, 3, and her sister Carly, 6, during their visit to St. Johns Episcopal Church in Somerville last Saturday. This weekend Santa will officially arrive in the borough on a fire truck and attend the annual tree lighting, taking place 5:30 p.m. today at Borough Hall, 25 West End Ave. Following the lighting, Santa will stroll down Main Street from 6-8 p.m. Most stores will be open until 8 p.m. Live music will be performed at Mannion's Pub & Restaurant, Verve Restaurant and the United Reformed Church. Kids can munch on free gingerbread men cookies and listen to live music at The Dessert Plate. There will also be an ice carver, who will sculpt with a chainsaw from 6-8 p.m. outside Wishes and Dreams.

South Bound Brook names costume contest winners

SOUTH BOUND BROOK — The borough's Recreation and Social Committee, which sponsors the annual Halloween parade, recently named the costume contest winners.

The committee thanked the mayor and Borough Council, South Bound Brook Police Department, South Bound Brook Fire Company and the South Bound Brook First Aid Squad for their help, participation and continued support in making this evening a huge success. The committee also thanked everyone who volunteered their time and assistance.

Judging of the costumes took place after the parade in the Robert Morris School gymnasium. The committee said it appreciated the efforts of those who volunteered their time to act as judges: Nancy Ambrose, Sharon Barber Fell and Nancy Kordell. Prizes of pizzas (from Domino's and Bella Roma) and subs (from Joe's Meat Market) were awarded. After the judging of costumes, doughnuts and cider were served to everyone by members of the Recreation Committee and volunteers.

MIDDLESEX
Two teens face criminal charges amid a vandalism spree on Halloween.

Matthew Glancey, 18, and Shaun DiMura, 18, both of Middlesex, were arrested Oct. 31 and charged with criminal mischief at the Absolute Auto and Truck Salvage yard on Mountain Avenue.

They allegedly used a pipe to break 21 windows on 16 vehicles at the salvage yard, according to a release from borough police. The damage was estimated at $1,800. Glancey posted $500 bail and was released pending a court hearing. DiMura was taken to the Middlesex County Adult Correction Center on $500 bail.

An unlocked bicycle was stolen Oct. 25 from the bicycle rack at Von E. Mauger Middle School. Police said the bike is valued at $150.

A purse belonging to a student at Middlesex High School was stolen from an MHS hallway Oct. 27.

Police were told an iPod and cell phone were inside the purse, with the total value of all the items at $713.

Christmas classic

COURTESY RARITAN VALLEY COMMUNITY COLLEGE

The Theatre at Raritan Valley Community College in North Branch will present the Nebraska Theatre Caravan's production of the holiday classic "A Christmas Carol," 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 2. The performance is part of the Theatre's Major Artists Series. Tickets cost $35 and $40. Welcome to the London of Charles Dickens, artfully created by the Nebraska Theatre Caravan. The period's chilling poverty and luxurious wealth both serve as a thrilling backdrop to this stage production. The best-known and best-loved phantoms in literature are the spirit guides who magically transport the miserly Ebenezer Scrooge through time and space in a quest for the true meaning of Christmas. To purchase tickets or for more information, call the box office at (908) 725-3420 or order online at www.rvccArts.org. Senior citizen, student and group discounts also are available for a variety of performances.

Some creative sign writing was employed during Sunday's protest of Pathmark at the Landmark Shopping Center in Somerville. Borough residents are saying Pathmark's legal action against redevelopment plans at the center is delaying the start of a what they feel is a beneficial project.

Protesters: Pathmark is delaying redevelopment

By ALLISON ELYSE GUALTIERI Staff Writer

SOMERVILLE — Somerville residents came to the Landmark Shopping Center on Sunday to voice their complaints about the role of Pathmark in the lack of progress on the redevelopment project.

"The motive behind Pathmark's actions are financial gain," said resident Dennis Garot, speaking on a bullhorn to a crowd of several dozen people. "Pathmark is holding the future of Somerville hostage."

Carrying hand-lettered signs bearing messages such as "Boycott Pathmark" and "Somerville Needs Rateables," the members of the demonstration expressed their displeasure with what they see as Pathmark's obstruction of the redevelopment project.

"All Somerville wants to do is see something start. This is our town and you want us to remain loyal to you, because you've been loyal to us, then let something start," said resident Kim Braukmann, referring to Pathmark. "Who wants to look at this anymore?"

Braukmann, who has shopped at Pathmark for over 20 years, said that she was no longer patronizing the supermarket.

Neither is her friend and fellow borough resident

Sandy Dibble, who said the only thing she has purchased from the store in the past few months has been food coloring as a last-minute errand.

"Why should I give them my money?" she said.

The redevelopment of the shopping center into a new mixed-use center has hit a snag, as Pathmark had brought its objections over the proposed plan to court and the borough is making preliminary steps toward acquiring their lease through eminent domain.

The lack of progress on the center, which has been largely empty of stores for months, has hit a nerve with the residents who were out Sunday to demonstrate. "It's the people in Somerville who started to talk, because the consensus was that two years was long enough," said Garot.

The demonstration also attracted the support of several borough council members and Mayor Brian Gallagher, who was present on Sunday.

"I'm here to show my support for people that are showing their support of the future of Somerville," said council president Robert Wilson. "I'm hoping Pathmark receives the message that a majority of people in Somerville want to see this development go forward."

The mayor, who was accompanied by his family, said he was at the protest both as an elected official and as a resident, and echoed Wilson's sentiments about the protest.

"I hope it gives Pathmark a reality check that the people of Somerville are not happy," he said. His family of seven no longer shops at the supermarket, said his wife Lisa, after years of regularly shopping at the market.

Pathmark spokesman Rich Savner said that there are always two sides to the story.

"We want to be here, but not under the circumstances the developer is trying to dictate," he said. "If the agree last November were put in writing, we would have signed. We're not reneging on our promise... It's unfortunate we're at the situation we're at, but we're protecting our customers and Pathmark."

One of those customers was in the parking lot on Sunday, and disagreed with the demonstrators.

Local resident Cindy Gattone has been shopping at the supermarket for 21 years, and Sunday was no exception.

"I think it's ridiculous, because this is the only store in town. There's a lot of people in Somerville living in shelters, or who don't have cars," she said. "Some aren't so fortunate as the people standing there. I hope they don't close this store; I love this store."

Military Honors

Chief Warrant Officer 4 Nicholas J. D'Andrea was recently awarded the Legion of Merit medal for meritorious service and conduct throughout his 31 year military career.

The Legion of Merit is awarded to members of the armed forces who distinguish themselves by exceptionally meritorious conduct in performance of service or achievement toward a specific achievement or succession of important positions.

The Legion of Merit medal ranks seventh in the order of U.S. military decorations.

D'Andrea has held various billets during his career, to include helicopter air crewman, training non-commissioned officers, administrative affairs officer and public affairs officer.

As air operations officer for HMH-772, marine aircraft group 49, headquartered in Willow Grove, PA., he assisted disaster relief efforts during the crash of TWA Flight 800 in Long Island, New York.

D'Andrea is currently assigned to Mobilization Training Unit New Jersey 2, headquartered in Metuchen, as the special operations officer and anti-terrorism advisor.

In addition to receiving the Legion of Merit, D'Andrea was also awarded the outstanding volunteer service medal for his exceptional community support over time and not of a single act of achievement. D'Andrea and his wife and two children live in Edison.

Santa Claus sets up his shop

Traditions may come and go, but Old St. Nick remains

By AMY S. BOBROWSKI
Staff Writer

BRIDGEWATER — From mid-November to Christmas Eve, Ron Collins makes a room at a Somerset County hotel his home. But he doesn't dress it up with decorations or go sight-seeing in the area.

The retired Collins is too busy putting smiles on the faces of children as the Santa Claus at the Bridgewater Commons.

The magic happens in the former Chico's store, where sheets of large brown paper cover up the windows. That's where Collins becomes Santa Claus.

Collins, a contracted Santa with Cherry Hill Photography, has played the beloved figure at the Bridgewater Commons Mall for the past five years. The 71-year-old Pipe Creek, Texas resident typically arrives at the mall around 8 a.m. each day. He'll get his gear ready and visit with employees at the mall before donning his big red suit — actually, he'll put on one of the five Santa suits he owns.

"I do a rotation and I have a special one for pet day that I don't wear when I'm with the kids," Collins said of the suits. Each includes boot covers, red suspenders, red wool pants, a red wool coat, a large black belt, white gloves and a fluffy red and white hat.

As soon as the mall opens, his nine hour day starts. He strolls down to the Santa set in the middle of the first floor. If there is a long line, Collins speaks to each child before taking a seat on the green and gold couch where child-upon-child hops on his lap and tell him their Christmas wishes.

"I hear everything," he said. "I have kids request that daddy move back home or mommy and daddy stop fighting. But 65 percent of my requests are for the toys of the market that year... Adults, they all want Mercedes or BMWs."

Collins greets children in three, three-hour shifts. During his hour-long breaks, he'll head back to the vacant Chico's and grab a bite to eat and cool off.

With a real white fluffy beard, rosy cheeks and a warm smile, Collins looks like the real deal.

"I've always had a beard since 1970," he said.

This Santa, however, has two tattoos on his forearm, but he makes sure they remain covered by using first aid tape to keep his gloves in place.

With the Santa gig, Collins is a celebrity. In his 12 years, as the holiday figure, there have been days when more than 700 children have rushed to sit on his lap. In 2001, his contract took him to Hong Kong.

"They treated me like royalty," he said. "I had seven workers on the set with me at all times. They told me I was the most popular man in China. I guess they hadn't seen a lot of Santa's like me."

When Collins isn't making children's dreams come true, he's enjoying retirement. The retired Navy veteran has five children and 15 grandchildren.

Because he's busy from November until Christmas, Collins completes his holiday shopping earlier than most and celebrates Thanksgiving with his family several weeks before the actual holiday. There are days that can be long, even for a well-loved icon.

"The downs are when the parents are irritated at the child or upset with the photographer because the child was crying," he said.

Additionally, even for a Texas native, a day in a wool suit can be a bit steamy.

"People don't realize how hot it can be for Santa," said Collins. "I have a fan set up on the set. I drink a lot of water. But it's hot and I sweat a lot...Each night, when I'm done, I turn my coat inside out so it can dry out."

But Collins can't complain. "I have the best job in the world," he said. "When a little kid sits on my lap and says 'I love you Santa,' that's the best thing in the world."

For the last five years, Ron Collins has come from his Texas home to portray Santa at Bridgewater Commons. His real white beard helps him look the part, and his warm heart helps him be it. Being a Santa in a mall does have its perks, like the variety of food choices at the Commons' food court and the chance to meet lots of shoppers. But when it comes time to eat lunch Santa prefers to spend time with his assistants, seen at bottom left, Mark Kanzler, left, Jamie Dunham, center, and Susan Rusco, right. The backroom accommodations may lack ambiance, but Santa's front parlor, a giant green sofa with gold edging located in the mall's center court, more than makes up for that.

"I have the best job in the world. When a little kid sits on my lap and says 'I love you Santa,' that's the best thing in the world."

Sharp Spartans romp to playoff victory

Immaculata advances to group final

By ALLAN CONOVER
Sports Editor

BRIDGEWATER — They may have gotten away with one the previous week, and they knew it.

So Immaculata High's unbeaten Spartans weren't taking any chances Nov. 17, which is why senior linebacker Tom DeSchaine was taking a little informal poll in the locker room prior to their state playoff clash with Holy Spirit.

"I said to everyone, 'If you're ready, put your hands up,'" he recalled, standing near midfield following Immaculata's stunning 35-6 rout. "I told them, 'Get your hands up. We have to be ready to go all-out tonight and show them we're ready to play.'"

"We were so fired up, and we hadn't been fired up in a while. It was a good feeling."

Except for the visitors from Atlantic County, who felt the full brunt of the Spartans' hungry urgency.

Following Michael Kuhn's 43-yard return of the opening kickoff, the Spartans needed just four plays to negotiate the remaining 48 yards to the end zone, and that was about as competitive as things ever got at Basilone Memorial Field.

Top-seeded Immaculata built up a 21-0 halftime advantage and coasted from there, putting the Spartans one step from their first sectional playoff championship since 1994. They'll face Delbarton for the Non-Public Schools Group 3 title 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 2 at Rutgers Stadium in Piscataway.

While Immaculata (11-0) may have struggled at times while ousting last-seeded St. John Vianney 21-13 in the previous week's opening round, there was precious little drama in this encounter, and the Spartans couldn't have chosen a more ideal time to put all facets of their game together considering this was a milestone evening for Pierce Frauenheim. This was his 400th game as the one and only head coach in school history.

They totaled 361 yards — 265 on the ground — and fifth-seeded Holy Spirit (7-3) never made it past the Immaculata 45-yard line until it trailed 21-0 in the waning moments of the second quarter. Junior running back William Washington, who entered the game with a Holy Spirit-record 1588 rushing yards, turned out to be a complete non-factor.

"I think this was our best overall effort of the season," said Frauenheim. "On offense, defense, and special teams, they all played great. It was just a total team effort."

"We felt St. John Vianney and Holy Spirit were both real good football teams," he added. "If you win six, seven, eight games during the season, you're a good football team. But the thing that wins these games are our assistant coaches. They prepared these kids for everything during the week and they do a great job week-in and week-out."

Flying to the ball is what Immaculata High's defense was doing plenty of Nov. 17, as displayed here by senior cornerback Justin Jones chasing down Holy Spirit running back William Washington in the opening half. The unbeaten Spartans breezed to a 35-6 decision in the Non-Public Schools Group 3 semifinal and will take on Delbarton for the title Saturday, Dec. 2 at Rutgers Stadium.

Bill Walsh, Holy Spirit's head coach, wasn't about to disagree after watching his troops get manhandled on both sides of the ball.

"They're a big, physical team," he said, "and we haven't seen an offensive line like that. We haven't played against an offensive line like that. No one has a line like that. So the credit goes to them and their coaches. And I'll also say this is the classiest team we've played."

Senior tight end Chris Peltack is a key cog in that burly, experienced offensive line, and for the second straight week he also got himself free in the end zone to snag a touchdown pass from Frank DeNick.

"Some people said we couldn't do this," he said afterwards, still emotionally charged-up. "We didn't play our best against Vianney but we came out ready this week. We had no doubt. It was just a total team effort. The line blocked, the backs ran hard, everyone got open on their routes."

"That first drive got us going, and we didn't lose our fire the whole game. There was a lot of talking on the field but we kept our cool and our poise."

The quick, powerful 5-foot-9, 190-pound Washington, regarded as one of South Jersey's top juniors, never made an impact.

Figuring Immaculata might stack up its defense to stop him, Walsh frequently lined him up out at flanker as a receiving target during the opening half and used another junior, Nick Hall, as HS's lone setback.

Washington did slip past the Spartans' secondary on the visitors' second series but dropped a deep pass in Immaculata territory.

"We had to try to utilize him in open space a bit," said Walsh, "and on that play it worked. But he dropped it, and in a game like this you can't have that happen. There goes any possible momentum."

On most other passing ventures, Washington was either covered well by backs like Mike Sena, Chris Leo or Justin Jones, or junior quarterback A.J. Holland missed him.

He concluded the game with only a single reception for 16 yards — which put Holy Spirit at the Immaculata 20-yard line late in the first half — and ran 26 times for 125 yards, but that's a misleading figure. During the opening half, when the game was basically decided, he carried nine times for just 28 yards.

"Washington didn't really affect us too much," said DeSchaine, who sacked Holland for a 13-yard loss in the first quarter. "But we were still watching Number 26 (Hall). He's fast, too. We watched a lot of film yesterday and saw how much they run the counter. That's all they did, so we knew every play that was coming at us. We were real well-prepared."

Holy Spirit had also prepared to chase down a pair of superb running backs, but in this case the South Jersey Spartans weren't nearly as successful.

Immaculata sophomore Theo Riddick was sensational, accumulating 144 yards on 23 carries and scoring two touchdowns although he again was playing with a soft cast on his left hand, the result of a broken thumb incurred against Hunterdon Central three weeks ago. Senior tailback A.J. Albert added 99 yards on 13 tries and also had two TDs.

"They're as good a backfield pair as any I've had here," said Frauenheim.

Albert rambled 37 yards on the fourth play from scrimmage to begin the scoring and several minutes later the host Spartans capitalized on some HS miscommunication to start a second touchdown drive.

Washington was back to apparently punt the ball away on fourth-and-six at the Immaculata 47-yard line but instead threw a pass which was intercepted by Jack Rice, who returned it 12 yards to the 50.

"No, no, no, it wasn't supposed to be a fake punt," said Walsh with a resigned laugh. "The poor kid looks to the sideline and I guess it was kind of hard to see, and call he thought he saw wasn't the call we were making. What are you going to do?"

Immaculata was going to take advantage of it. In 10 plays, eight on the ground, the Spartans marched to their second TD. Riddick blasting in from three yards out with 9:26 left in the second period and Mike Brownett drilling through his second conversion kick for a 14-0 cushion.

On Immaculata's next series, on second-and-three from its 38, the Spartans used the old "hook-and-lateral" to put their third TD on the board. DeNick tossed a short pass to wideout Brad McAdam on the right side and he quickly flipped the ball back to Riddick coming behind him. Riddick outraced HS defenders to paydirt for a 21-0 lead.

Reverting to its more standard offensive modus operandi, Holy Spirit took the second-half kickoff and began an impressive drive by keeping Washington in the backfield and giving him the ball most of the time.

With Washington carrying on six of the eight plays, the South Jersey Spartans advanced from their 25 to the Immaculata 12. Following a first-down incomplete pass, Washington busted off right tackle and scored a TD but an illegal procedure penalty nullified the play, putting Holy Spirit back at the 17.

This is where the lack of a reliable passing attack hurt the Absecon school. Two Washington carries picked up seven yards, and on fourth-and-eight, they tried a reverse but Hall encountered a bunch of defenders in the backfield before scrambling to the 7 as Immaculata took over.

That was the last legitimate chance HS had at getting back into the game. DeNick hit Peltack with a 13-yard scoring pass on the second play of the final period to cap a 53-yard drive and on Immaculata's next possession it marched 75 yards for the final TD.

Milestone game a gem for coach

BRIDGEWATER — Immaculata High's Spartans did all they could to make certain there would be nothing but winning smiles during the brief post-game celebration of Pierce Frauenheim's 400th game as the school's head football coach.

The unbeaten Spartans put together perhaps their finest all-around performance of the season Nov. 17 to wallop Holy Spirit 35-6 in the semifinal round of the NJSIAA Non-Public Schools Group 3 playoffs.

Afterwards near the middle of the field, the entire squad and coaches gathered around Frauenheim and his wife Ann Marie, while Immaculata fans remained in the Basilone Memorial Field stands as a black banner was brought out with the message, in white and yellow lettering,

"Congrats Coach . . . 400 and counting."

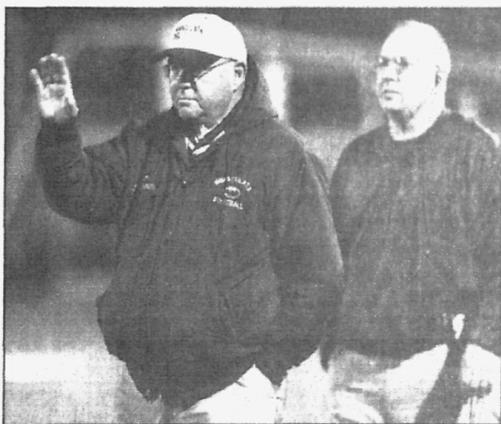

Kenny Greig, speaking into a microphone on the field, filled everyone in on Frauenheim's background at the school and how he'd built Immaculata into a power by the late-1970s.

Frauenheim, a former Rutgers University defensive back, was stalking the sideline as Immaculata's head coach when the Spartans began varsity play in 1966 and he's still there 41 seasons later, compiling a 273-125-2 record along the way which includes an ongoing stretch of 29 straight non-losing seasons.

And, at the age of 65, there are no imminent plans to stop.

"God willing," he said with a smile.

Later, after discussing the game with the assembled media, Frauenheim mentioned how important this milestone was to him.

"Besides my family, Immaculata has been my life and I'm very appreciative and grateful," said Frauenheim, whose four sons all played for him. "It's been a good run."

A run that now will conclude the 2006 campaign with a shot at the school's first playoff championship in a dozen years.

Trick play is a Spartan favorite

Often referred to as the "hook-and-lateral" maneuver, it could be just called "The Immaculata Special" when state playoff time rolls around.

The play that seems to have become a staple in the Spartans' post-season playbook pretty much broke Holy Spirit's spirit Nov. 17.

With Immaculata High, already ahead 14-0, at its 38-yard line and facing a second-and-three situation in the second quarter, head coach Pierce Frauenheim and offensive coordinator Brett Lyons, a former Spartan quarterback who graduated in 1992, both sensed it might be the right time to haul the "hook-and-lateral" out of the old bag of tricks.

"Brett played for me and has been coaching with me five or six years," said Frauenheim, "and this is the second year he's really taken over the offense. So it's really ironic both of us at the very same time said let's move the ball to the left side of the field a bit, and then throw the hook-and-pitch (to the right side).

"That's exactly what happened. We were on the same page."

Quarterback Frank DeNick tossed a pass to junior wideout Brad McAdam, who'd run a hook pattern in the right flat, and as defenders converged on him, he flipped the ball to speedy sophomore back Theo Riddick coming around behind him. Riddick took it from there, sprinting past several defenders to the goal line to complete a 62-yard touchdown play with 5:02 remaining before the half-time break.

"All I know is the corner missed the tackle and after that it was just me running to the end zone," said Riddick.

DUNELLEN — The Dunellen Public Library has these programs for the public:

"Baby Buddies," 10:30 a.m. Wednesdays. This play group is for children under age 3, accompanied by an adult. No registration is necessary.

"Imagination Station," 10:30 a.m. Thursdays. This storytime program is for children ages 3-5. Registration is required.

Fly-tying, 6:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 27. Learn how this method is used on fishing reels. No registration is necessary.

Holiday party, 6:30 p.m. Dec. 11. This open house features music from the Banjo Rascals.

For registration where it is required, call (732) 968-4585 or visit the library on New Market Road.

'Evening Out' for Sisterhood

METUCHEN — The Sisterhood of Congregation Neve Shalom has "An Evening Out with the Girls" right after Thanksgiving.

This social event is at 7 p.m. Monday in the synagogue at 250 Grove Ave. Dairy dessert and entertainment are provided.

Medicaid rules topic of seminar

EDISON — The Edison Free Public Library sponsors a seminar on "New Medicaid Rules for Long-Term Care Planning."

Elder law attorney Donald Vanarelli conducts the seminar at 1 and 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Main Branch, 340 Plainfield Ave. For registration, call (732) 287-2298, option 1.

FISH seeking food donations

MIDDLESEX — FISH Inc. helps feed families who are in need, especially at Christmas.

Donations of food are accepted any time at the Middlesex Public Library on Mountain Avenue next to the Municipal Building. You can also bring donations from 9 a.m. to noon Monday, Wednesday and Friday to the FISH food pantry at 456 New Market Road, Piscataway, adjacent to the First Baptist Church of New Market.

Among the foodstuffs most needed are powdered milk, hot cereal (not sugared), high-protein cereal, canned tuna, canned ham, canned chicken, peanut butter, jelly, spaghetti, canned tomato sauce, canned fruit, canned vegetables, beans of any type, canned soup (especially low-sodium), infant food, infant formula and cranberry juice. Financial contributions are always welcome and can be sent to FISH Inc., P.O. Box 8565, Piscataway, NJ 08855-8006.

For more information, call (732) 356-0081.

Dunellen library starts book drive

DUNELLEN — The Dunellen Public Library is participating in the annual "Books to Keep" book drive.

Bring new books to the library on New Market Road any day until Dec. 15. All books will be given to needy children in Middlesex County.

For more information, call (732) 968-4585.

Synagogue events open to the public

METUCHEN — Two events in December are open to the public at Congregation Neve Shalom, 250 Grove Ave.

Cantor Faith Steinsnyder speaks on "Niggunim and Spirituality" following Sabbath eve services at 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 8. She is a lecturer at the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion in Manhattan. A question-and-answer period will follow.

A "Sephardic Shabbat" at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 16 includes the dedication of a new Torah. Galeet Dardashti is the guest cantorial soloist. Lunch with Sephardic food follows the service.

For more information, e-mail can2r11@aol.com or call (732) 548-2238.

New Year's Eve party sponsored by club

METUCHEN — A New Year's Eve party at 9 p.m. Dec. 31 is sponsored by the Men's Club of Congregation Neve Shalom, 250 Grove Ave.

Cost is $75 per couple or $37.50 per person, BYOB. Food, music and dancing are included.

For reservations, call Lou at (732) 381-0014 or Abe at (732) 494-6427 by Monday, Dec. 11.

Need volunteers for adult programs

EDISON — Volunteers are needed to work with older adults in adult day programs sponsored by the Jewish Family & Vocational Service of Middlesex County.

These programs meet three days a week at Temple Emanuel on James Street. Programs cover arts and crafts, music, cultural activities, lectures, demonstrations, book reviews, dance and poetry. Volunteers are also needed to help prepare and serve lunch.

If you are interested, e-mail ej.berman@jvsv.org or call (732) 777-1540, Ext. 122.

Reserve now for Elks dance

SOUTH PLAINFIELD — The Elks are holding a dinner-dance with music by Bill Turner & Blue Smoke.

The dinner-dance is at 8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 9 in the Elks lodge at 1254 New Market Ave. Dinner includes chicken, ribs, potatoes, baked beans, vegetable, dessert, coffee, tea and soda. There will be a cash bar.

Cost is $20. For tickets, call Debbie Czech at (732) 491-5310. No tickets will be sold at the door.

Dunellen library starts book drive

DUNELLEN — The Dunellen Public Library is participating in the annual "Books to Keep" book drive.

Bring new books to the library on New Market Road between Nov. 1 and Dec. 15. All books will be given to needy children in Middlesex County.

Campus Notes

Three seniors at John P. Stevens High School in Edison have been honored by the National Hispanic Recognition Program. They are Christopher Ojeda, Christine Salvarani and Christopher Salvarani. All listed themselves as Hispanic when they took the PSAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test in their junior year.

Selection is based on scores from that test along with academic achievement. Seven area students have enrolled as freshmen at Syracuse University in Syracuse, N.Y. They are: Kelly Baekus of Piscataway, majoring in voice in the College of Visual and Performing Arts.

David D'Apollito of Edison, major in arts and sciences in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Silvia Milanova of Bound Brook, majoring in newspaper journalism in the S.I. Newhouse School of Public Communications. Didier Morais of Piscataway, majoring in sport management in the College of Human Services and Health Professions. Amreen Panjwani of Edison, majoring in finance in the Martin J. Whitman School of Management. Sumil Sinha of Edison, majoring in engineering in the I.C. Smith College of Engineering and Computer Science. Alana Wolberg of Edison, majoring in inclusive elementary and special education in the School of Education.

Legal Notices

NOTICE OF PUBLIC SALE OF CO-OP APARTMENT

BY VIRTUE OF A DEFAULT UNDER that certain Security Agreement repossessed by the creditor, Valeri Edelman (the "Debtor") in favor of EvBank ("Secured Party")

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that pursuant to Article 9 of the Uniform Commercial Code the Secured Party will sell the collateral hereinafter described at public auction on Wednesday, December 6, 2006

Said public auction will commence at 10:00 a.m. at the offices of Summit Agency, Inc., Robert Tarcusius, Broker of Mar Street, 2nd Floor, Coakley, NJ at which time the following collateral will be sold

All above certificated, sales check powers, assignments and documents, pursuant to which certain rights or benefits have been granted to the Debtor, all in connection with or pursuant to certain Promissory Notes and Security Agreements, collectively, the "Collateral" representing the Debtor's interest in the following property:

6 Olive Drive, #1A, Edison, New Jersey

The underlying indebtedness in the approximate amount of $66,000.95 plus accrued interest, if any fees and costs of sale, as represented by a "Promissory Note" or any other form of agreement between the Debtor and Secured Party is not part of this auction and is not being sold

The purchase price for the collateral shall be payable in cash or by certified or bank check of which a ten (10%) percent deposit is required with the successful bid at time of auction and the balance of the purchase price shall be payable within thirty (30) days ("Closing Date").

The Secured Party reserves the right to bid at this sale, shall not be required to post a deposit with the Auctioneer and may credit against the purchase price bid all sums due to the Secured Party under the Security Agreement. The sale may be subject to further conditions and revisions as may be announced at the start of the auction. The Collateral appointment thereto may be inspected at the offices of Peluse Becker & Saltzman immediately prior to the sale.

The Co-Op Apartment will be sold as is, subject to superior liens if any, subject to rights of tenants or occupants
