County is ready to respond

By ALLISON ELYSE GUALTIERI

BERNARDS — Over 100 members of police, fire, rescue squads and other emergency groups filled the hall of the Liberty Corner Fire House on Monday night to hear members of the county's Office of Emergency Management detail the resources and departments on hand to help out the local groups.

From the new mobile command unit to the county dispatch center and reverse 911 system, the county's emergency management team explained what they have available and what groups could take advantage of.

"We are very, very lucky in Somerset County," said Doug Rue, county fire coordinator. "Everything is together under one umbrella. In many counties, it's not that way."

Rue also showed off and talked about the mobile command unit, a dispatch and communications center for large-scale emergencies that has everything from 35 radios to satellite phones and internet access, along with its own generator.

"This thing will be self-sufficient for three days," he said.

With kitchen space along with a workstation for the SWAT team and hostage negotiation, the unit is ready for any type of emergency, anywhere in the state.

"It will travel. It could go on large fire events and BRIDGEWATER — The Somerset Patriots are offering fans the opportunity to send a Sparkee-Gram this Valentine's Day.

A Sparkee-Gram is a special visit from Sparkee, the Somerset Patriots Mascot, to a person's home or office to deliver Valentine's Day gifts for a loved one.

Sparkee will make 10 appearances throughout Valentine's Day to deliver a Sparkee-Gram, consisting of a Patriots T-shirt, hat, and two tickets to a 2007 Patriots game. Sparkee will also deliver any additional gifts provided by the sender to the team in advance.

Sparkee-Grams are based on a first-come first-serve basis and are available from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

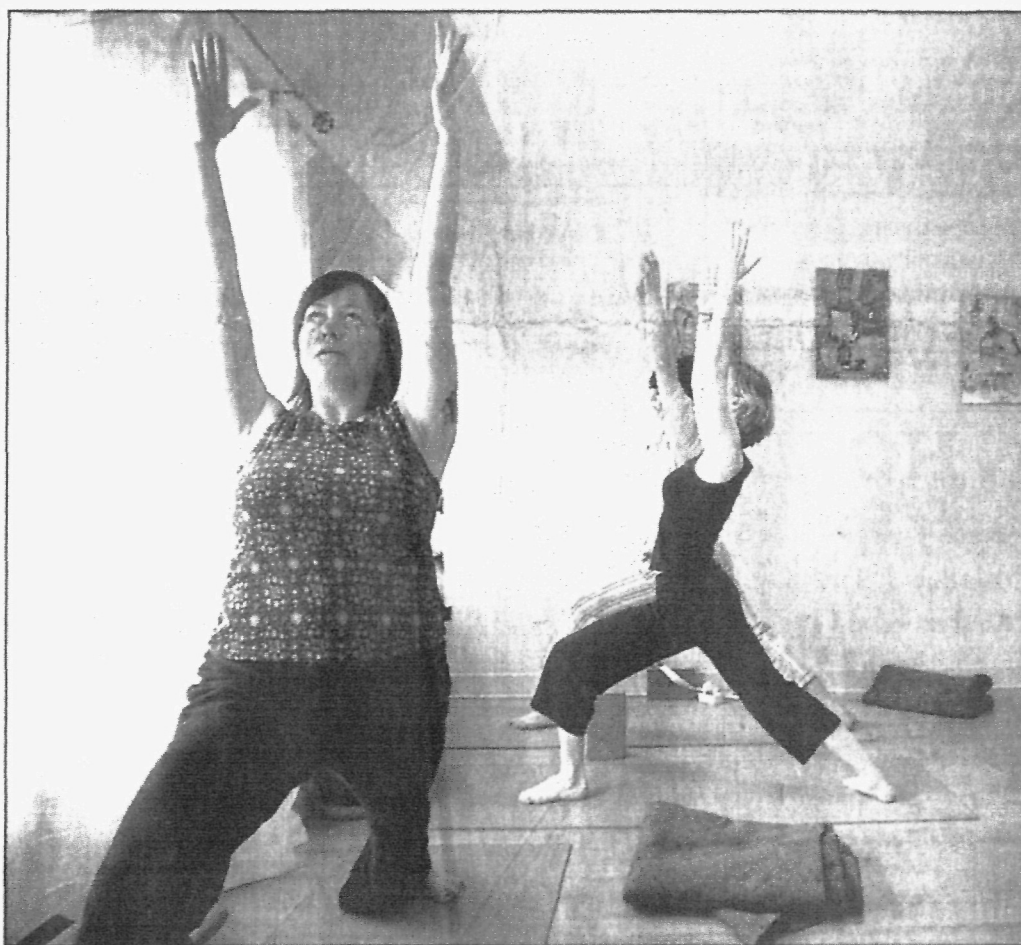

"We wanted to give our fans an opportunity to use Sparkee in a very unique way," said Patrick McVerry, president and general manager of the Somerset Patriots Baseball Club. "What can possibly say 'Happy Valentine's Day' more than a six foot gray dog delivering items from your favorite local team?"

To book a Sparkee-Gram, contact Matt Rothenberg, Community Relations manager of the Somerset Patriots, at (908) 252-0700, Ext. 210.

RARITAN — Had a bad day? Newly opened Yoga Sanctuary may be the way to get over it, and other curveballs life throws your way.

"At the end of class people always say they feel relaxed and peaceful. What you discover in class is, that peace was always there. It was always in you. You just have to tap into it," said Yvonne Stuck, owner of Yoga Sanctuary, located at 48 W. Somerset St., Suite B, in the borough.

Yoga Sanctuary, which offers classes for children up to senior citizens, can be a source of physical exercise as well as mental exercise. There are classes for students ranging in experience from absolute beginner to experienced practitioner, as well as therapeutic, pre and post-natal yoga.

"It can be a lot of things to a lot of people," said Stuck, a registered yoga instructor who has practiced it for nine years.

And Stuck said yoga, unlike other activities, is an individual, ongoing practice where the only goal is to bring out the inherent strength, balance, peace, and flexibility that exists in the minds and bodies of all people.

"There are no black belts. No tests," she said.

Stuck, who has a 16 month old son, Mason, said yoga is particularly helpful to pregnant women.

"I have a special place in my heart for prenatal yoga," she said. "It builds strength needed during labor. It cultivates relaxation. It gets the body physically ready to make room for the baby and pass it out. It lets them tap into that inherent strength all women have."

BOUND BROOK

Library ready to reopen

BOUND BROOK — The Somerset County Library System has announced that the Bound Brook Memorial Library will open to the public 9:30 a.m. Thursday, Feb. 15.

The extensive renovation project funded by the borough includes a new heating, ventilation and cooling system for the entire building, a water drainage system and a floor-to-ceiling renovation of the children's department on the lower level.

In the Children's Department, Bound Brook and South Bound Brook residents can expect to see a large children's room, a new program room, a new tile floor, new walls, a whimsical new ceiling, new windows, new doors, and a new electric, cable and HVAC system.

A custom-made circulation desk, paid for by the Borough of Bound Brook, along with a counter and six chairs funded by the Friends of the Bound Brook Memorial Library (for use with six children's computers) are designed with the youngest patron in mind. New oak shelving, a preschool-themed area rug, wooden wall activity panels and an activity cube for preschoolers as well as a "sand table" — enclosed magnetic raceway for children, paid for by the Bound Brook Memorial Library Advisory Board contribute to

Rotary helps bring hope to Ecuador

Rotary Homes of Hope project volunteers are planning a return trip to Ecuador this year to help achieve the fundamental goals of health and home for the residents of a tiny village in San Pablo.

The project began in 2001 when Doug Merritt, founder and chairman of Rotary Homes of Hope, traveled to Ecuador to build homes for the inhabitants of Guayaquil who were displaced after the El Niño storms of the late 1990s. Merritt was so moved by what he experienced by Guayaquil that he made a personal commitment to help the villagers attain a better life.

Members of New Jersey Rotary District 7510 have banded together to help the impoverished villagers of San Pablo. To date project volunteers and villagers have built 44 homes, a community center and a day care center. Working with a number of organizations in Ecuador, including the events around the state," he said. "It's an on-scene command center for a large-scale emergency or special event."

To get the word out in case of an emergency — even one as small as a school closing for inclement weather — the county's reverse 911 system is an important communications resource.

"You can send out messages to the county as a whole group, as a town, or if you have a Haz-Mat incident and need to notify the people in the neighborhood or in the surrounding streets, you can program the computer to contact them," said LeRoy Gunzelman III, director of emergency management for the county.

While most emergency personnel in attendance were aware of the resources available, they agreed it was nice to get a thorough review.

"I've been in EMS for 20 years, so I know pretty much everything from when it was developed, but it's very informative for the new people, and it's good to know what's available," said Charlotte Flohl, a volunteer with the Liberty Corner First Aid Squad.

"We're pretty familiar with what the county has available," said Tim McGowan, chief of the Warren Fire Department. "We've always been satisfied with what they've participated in."

His colleague and assistant chief, Mike Gonnella, complimented the new mobile command unit.

"It's a nice piece of equipment. Hopefully, we'll never have to use it," he said.

Rotary Club of Rio Guayas and Hogar de Cristo, volunteers have accomplished many projects that have brought hope for a better future to some of the world's poorest people.

In addition to construction projects, health care services are also provided during the annual mission. Under the leadership of Bridgewater physician Glenn Friedman, more than 1,000 men, women and children from the village and surrounding communities were provided health and medical care during the last 10-day visit in 2006.

Rotary Homes of Hope volunteers will return to the village in late June and concentrate their efforts on providing the village with clean water. Currently there is no running water — two large garbage pails are filled every week with water for each of the village's 44 homes. Additionally, the volunteers will be erecting a fence around the village so that inhabitants can keep wild animals from destroying the crops.

Another major project is called Sponsor Me, a program that will allow the children of San Pablo to receive a healthy breakfast. Before the program began in 2006 the children's morning meal consisted of brown sugar and water. The Sponsor Me program will ensure that every one of the 85 children in the village will be given a healthy breakfast during the school year. The program also will provide clothes, shoes, school supplies, two doctor visits, two dentist visits and paid tuition to the local school.

For the Rotary Homes of Hope project to be successful, contributions are needed. A contribution of $420 provides for one child in the Sponsor Me program. Donations of $500, $1,000 and $3,000 will provide fences, housing and supplies needed to furnish the village with clean running water. Donations may also support future projects, including construction of a new elementary school. All money raised for the project goes directly toward benefiting the village; volunteers cover their own travel and personal expenses.

Several Rotary Clubs in District 7510 are scheduled to participate. They are the Lambertville-New Hope Rotary Club, Flemington Rotary Club, Whitehouse Rotary Club, Clinton Sunrise Rotary Club, Branchburg Township Rotary Club, Edison Rotary Club and South Amboy-Sayreville Rotary Club.

If you are a medical professional and would like to volunteer, call Merritt at (908) 722-3380.

If you would like to make a donation toward the Sponsor Me program or a general donation, you can send it to Branchburg Rotary Club, P.O. Box 5135, North Branch, NJ 08876. Make checks payable to Branchburg Rotary Foundation and indicate "Rotary Homes of Hope" in the memo line. Donations are tax-deductible to the extent allowed by law.

a child-friendly atmosphere that's sure to please many families.

On the main level of the library, adults can expect to see more public computers, more books, audio books, CDs and DVDs. Freshly painted public spaces, new non-glare lighting, refinished wood, new carpeting in the computer room and reupholstered lounge chairs.

The renovation of the library's Reading Room was accomplished with the help of the community.

Thanks to a bequest from borough resident Grace Emerson, 10 new pendant light fixtures grace the ceiling. The installation of the new lighting was completed with the help of borough resident Howard Wagner of the electrical company DeWitt Van Nاست along with a volunteer crew of local electricians and residents with construction experience.

"With substantially increased funding through the Somerset County Library System, the library will now have increased staffing, more open hours and many more books, audio books, CDs and DVDs for children and adults to borrow," according to Bound Brook Director Hannah Kerwin.

The Bound Brook Library will now be open longer, starting a half an hour earlier every morning and remaining open on Wednesday evenings. The new library hours are: 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays and 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

Although the library will be open to the public as of Thursday, a grand-reopening ceremony is being planned for 2 p.m. Sunday, March 25.

As part of the larger Somerset County Library System community, library cardholders have access to a greater array of shared services and library materials, both print and non-print. The library's online catalog enables users to reserve library materials and have them sent to the most convenient library branch for pick-up.

The library system also offers digital books and e-audio books, many electronic databases and online book clubs via the library website. Bound Brook and South Bound Brook residents are encouraged to visit the Bound Brook Library and obtain a new library card if they haven't signed up for one already.

The Somerset County Library System has branches in Bound Brook, Bridgewater, Hillsborough, Peapack, North Plainfield, Rocky Hill, Warren and Watchung. For more information, visit www.somerset.lib.nj.us.

Gov. Corzine signs bill for 9/11 scholarships

Legislation that provides college scholarships to surviving family members of New Jerseyans who die from illnesses caused by exposure to the World Trade Center site has been signed into law by Gov. Jon S. Corzine.

The new law extends benefits of the New Jersey World Trade Center Scholarship Program to dependents and spouses of individuals who die as a result of illnesses caused by exposure to the sites that were attacked on Sept. 11, 2001.

The law will help families like that of an Ocean County man who died last January from pulmonary disease and respiratory failure that reportedly was a direct result of his extensive service at Ground Zero as a New York police officer.

"New Jerseyans never will be able to erase from their minds the images of 9/11, but many residents continue to suffer acutely because of direct exposure to Ground Zero and the other attack sites," said Assemblywoman Pamela R. Lampitt, D-6th. "We have an obligation to help these first responders and other New Jerseyans who contracted deadly illnesses in the aftermath of Sept. 11."

Under the law, a survivor will be eligible for a scholarship to help cover the cost of undergraduate study upon providing medical records or other documentation showing that his or her relative's death was caused by exposure to the 9/11 sites.

"Police, fire and EMT personnel throughout the region responded to Ground Zero without thought to their own personal safety and well-being," said Assemblyman Frederick Scalera (D-36th). "We must recognize the sacrifices of these brave men and women even if they did not perish on 9/11 or shortly thereafter."

Scalera is also the deputy chief of the Nutley Fire Department.

The new law augments the existing program that made available annual college scholarships to children and spouses of people who were New Jersey residents on Sept. 11, 2001, and killed in the attacks at the World Trade Center, the Pentagon and in Somerset County, Pa., or as a result of injuries from the attacks.

"The loss of a parent or spouse to the terrorist attacks is a tragedy whether the loved one died on 9/11 or only recently," said Assemblyman Michael J. Panter, D-12th. "Providing college scholarships cannot in any way make up for that personal loss, but it can help families survive and make progress in their own lives. It also is a fitting tribute to the brave New Jerseyans who responded in the aftermath of the terrorist attacks and have since struggled with deadly illnesses."

"A college education can open the door to a lifetime of opportunity," said Assemblyman Patrick J. Diegnan, D-18th. "Expanding the scholarship program ensures that New Jerseyans are not cut off from achieving their dreams because a 9/11-related illness took their spouses or parents."

A recent study showed the average decline in lung function among firefighters who were at Ground Zero one year after the attacks was equivalent to 12 years of aging.

It's 'Time To Eat' again in Bridgewater

Popular diner reopens

By AMY S. BOBROWSKI
Staff Writer

BRIDGEWATER — With a entirely renovated interior, a refurbished exterior and an expanded menu, it's now time to eat at the Time To Eat Diner.

Patrons to the diner, which dates back to the 1950s, can sit on swivel stools at a granite counter top or relax in booths where the tables actually move to accommodate guests large and small.

If they look up, past the earth-toned goblet lighting, they'll see what they think is a blue sky.

"It's a way of bringing a little bit of the outside in," said co-owner Henry Rybak, referring to a mural on the ceiling. Owners Chris Mitchel and Rybak took over the diner in 1994. They closed the establishment in May after a small fire.

"It was miniscule," said Mitchel. "But we figured then it was a good time to start the renovations. We were planning on doing them anyway."

Once nearly 300 clocks ticked, tocked and chimed at the Time To Eat Diner, but when the restaurant closed for renovations, they got packed up and put away in boxes.

When it reopened again late last month, only a few clocks were perched on the wall.

Not to worry, said Mitchel and Rybak. As soon as they sort and clean the clocks, they'll be put right back up.

But now the clocks will be fastened to mahogany paneling and surrounded by all the latest retro furnishings including stamped steel walls, tinted windows and new kitchen appliances.

"We wanted a 1950s look, but we wanted it to be modern," Mitchel said.

The outside of the diner also received a facelift with a new roof, the addition of copper framing around the windows and a clock tower visible from the highway.

"The diner always sat really low before," Mitchel said. "Now you can see it. It stands out."

A new menu with about 50 new items will feature Polish, Greek, Italian and organic specialties. But all the old-time favorites including the Time To Eat grill chicken sandwich and its famous hamburgers will be still be on the menu. For the first time, the diner will employ its own pastry chef instead of ordering sweet goodies from a bakery. With the new chef and with all the old cooks back in action, Rybak and Mitchel said they're serving up meals in style.

Additionally, once all the hubbub from the grand opening dies down, Mitchel and Rybak hope to host special themed nights and offer meals from different ethnicities.

The diner was originally slated to reopen in September, but delays, such as the shipment of the wrong materials and incorrectly sized glass and tables pushed the date back.

"It's the normal things you hear about when you do a project," Mitchel said.

But despite the longevity of the project, customers are flocking back.

"The phone is ringing off the hook," said Mitchel who noted the diner can seat about 200 people. "The line will be out the door for breakfast on Saturday and Sunday."

While they're waiting, customers can try out the Internet Jukebox, one of the coolest features of the renovations.

"Any song that exists, you type it in and it'll play," Mitchel said. "You don't need to have the disc here. A lot of the young people really like it."

The diner, located at 270 Routes 202/206 is open from 5 a.m. to 1 a.m. Sunday through Wednesday, 5 a.m. to 2 a.m. Thursdays and 24 hours on Fridays and Saturdays. For more information or to place an order, call (908) 704-9221.

House of worship expanding in Somerville

By AMY S. BOBROWSKI
Staff Writer

SOMERVILLE — One wall. One lonely cinderblock wall held up by planks of wood. It's all that's left of the Shiloh Pentecostal Church on Davenport Street.

The rest of the former 1,200-square-foot worship center was demolished to make way for a new 3,300-square-foot church home. The wall will be integrated into the new church, allowing the religious organization to consider the project a renovation and expansion instead of new construction.

The Rev. Pat Webster said excavation and site preparation work is currently being completed and a prefabricated foundation could be laid by the end of the month with the roof and windows to be installed sometime in March.

"We want to be back in there by Thanksgiving," she said, from her home where she currently completes much of the church business while construction is ongoing. "But you can't push something like this. We need to take our time so things are done correctly."

The congregation and church leaders have certainly put a lot of time into getting this project off the ground. The vision for the expansion dates back decades and started with Webster's mother, who served as the church pastor from the late 1960s to the early '90s. However, the expansion was never completed.

"We did internal improvements — a new kitchen, new lighting — instead," said the Rev. Sidney Webster, Pat Webster's husband.

But when Pat Webster took over as senior pastor in the mid-'90s, the vision became re-energized, even if it did run into a few speed bumps. The congregation contracted SSP Architects of Somerville to design its new home — a three-story worship center with sanctuary seating for 250 people and a medium-toned all-wood ceiling, stained glass windows, a steeple, a balcony, handicap accessible areas and elevator, a basement with a multipurpose room, a kitchen, nursery, a laundry room, offices and classrooms.

It was everything church officials wanted, but with that design came a hefty cost to the tune of more than $3.6 million.

Their luck took a turn for the better when Deaconess Patti Webster, the couple's daughter, encountered the Barden Homes and Bossart Building companies — the team constructing the 33,000-square-foot Christian Community Chapel in Hillsborough.

"It's costing them $3 million," Pat Webster said. "We were looking at 3,300 square feet for $3 million."

They discovered the chapel was using wood instead of steel construction. After switching to Barden Homes and Bossart Building, the church will be able to construct its new home for between $1.2 million and $1.5 million.

The need for the expansion is out of sheer growth. With about 200 members, the church averages around 180 people at Sunday morning church services. But the former sanctuary area could only hold about 110.

"We had overflow," said Pat Webster, who noted during construction, services and programs are being held at the Days Inn on Route 22 in Bridgewater. "We were using the basement and had monitors down there."

"We had no room for meetings," Sid Webster added.

The old church was originally opened in 1955, but the planning and the construction for the house of worship began in the early 1940s.

"In doing so, we had no mortgage," Pat Webster said. "That was our intention."

They hope with the expansion, membership will continue to grow. They look forward to offering additional youth services and programs with the possibility of creating a day-care system.

"It's going to be a super day (when we move back in)," Sid Webster said. "We have many people who are waiting for our doors to open because they want to join our church."

In a time when many churches are facing declining membership and attendance at services, Pat Webster attributes the growth at Shiloh to "good teaching, good preaching and good music."

"They find a love here they can't find anywhere else," she said.

"Our other name is the Christian Love Center," her husband added.

Songs to learn along to

By ALLISON ELYSE GUALTIERI
Staff Writer

BRIDGEWATER — The pupils of Bradley Gardens Primary School roared as loud as they could, until the gymnasium was filled with the sounds of dinosaurs.

The children were roaring along, on cue, to guest entertainer Mr. RAY's song "I'd be a dinosaur," about wanting to stand up to bullies, the first song in a special cultural arts presentation at the school last Thursday.

The program was part of the Parent Teacher Organization's cultural arts offerings, which brings educational programs to the school.

"We try to get a mixed bag of educational and fun items," said Larissa Sweetner, head of the cultural arts committee. "He just looked interesting."

From dinosaurs to rainbows to basketballs to Kalien the Alien — who wants everyone to be nice to each other — Mr. RAY, also known as Ray Andersen, kept the students singing and clapping along to the songs in the assembly.

"I don't just sing songs, I make up songs with my very powerful imagination," the Highland Park native told the pupils, encouraging them to use their imaginations as well.

His silly songs, played on his be-stickered acoustic guitar, did not just promote laughter and dancing, but also offered the pupils a fun way to learn about music, science, and each other.

Andersen, armed with recordings of famous musical groups, led the pupils through the different instruments, explaining who the bands were and which instruments were being played — the Beatles for guitar, Led Zeppelin for bass, Vivaldi for violin, Gershwin for clarinet — before using Tito Puente and Bob Marley as a springboard into his own song about music from around the world.

Though Andersen has spent the last 12 years as a children's entertainer, he started out performing music with various bands, including the Stone Pony's house band and as a part of Meat Loaf's band. His children's music came about after his wife asked him to sing to the children at a daycare where she was temping. Since then, his three children's albums, including "Family Ride," which was released last November, have made him a hit with the under-8 set.

While the audience at Bradley Gardens is a little older than his usual audiences, he said, 6-year-olds Isabel Canihan and Alexa Smith pronounced the show "a good assembly."

"My favorite part was when we got up and danced," said Isabel.

Alexa, her classmate in Kathleen Carbonetta's first grade class, said that her favorite part was Roy G. Biv, whose name stands for all the colors of the rainbow.

"I liked that one," she said.

Ray Andersen, better known as Mr. RAY, performs for pupils at Bradley Gardens Primary School in Bridgewater.

Marjorie Borieszo

BOUND BROOK — Marjorie I. Borieszo, 90, died Jan. 11, 2007 in Warsaw, Va.

Born Nov. 17, 1916 in Milltown, she was the eldest child of the late Frederick J. Jr. and Nell G. Potter.

Mrs. Borieszo was an extraordinarily gifted individual who loved life and learning. She graduated from New Brunswick High School at age 16 and earned her bachelor's degree in psychology from the New Jersey College for Women (now Douglass College of Rutgers University) in 1937.

She was an accomplished sportsman who excelled in skiing, tennis, horseback riding, swimming and dancing.

After graduating from college she worked as a buyer at Hahne & Co. in Newark and married her childhood sweetheart, Joseph E. in 1941. She was devoted to her daughters and took an active part in their lives and the community life of Milltown.

Mrs. Borieszo believed strongly in the value of education for women. She wanted her daughters to be independent, self-sufficient individuals in their own right. To ensure that they received a college education, she returned to school in her 40's and earned a master's degree in education from Rutgers in 1962.

She then embarked on a long teaching career, first at Smalley Middle School in Bound Brook, where the family had moved in 1961, then at the Good Hope School in St. Croix, U.S. Virgin Islands. Not only did she accomplish her goal of providing for her daughters' education, she also enriched the lives of her many students who adored her. Her life was about giving to others.

The Borieszos retired in 1981 to Vero Beach, Fla. Retired is not a word that describes what Mrs. Borieszo did. She became an accomplished watercolorist, entering local art shows. She was a member of the Vero Beach Center for the Arts and became an active volunteer. She greatly enhanced the "Museum in a Basket" outreach program to the public schools. The Borieszos also traveled extensively until his death in 2000.

Mrs. Borieszo never lost her fascination with life and her consideration for others even as her health declined in her long and debilitating illness. She was an inspiration to all who knew her. She was loved and will be missed by many.

She was preceded in death by three brothers, Fred III, Richard and Robert.

Surviving are four daughters, Dianne White and husband Robert, Janice Cox and husband Mead, Joanne Elvins and husband Peter and Dale Watten and husband Barnaby; a sister, Gloria Potter Moore; and six grandchildren.

Services were held Jan. 23 at the A.S. Cole Funeral Home in Cranbury. Interment was in Brainerd Cemetery, Cranbury.

Panthers rally to victory

SOMERVILLE — It took an extra half-hour to get the game started — and another eight minutes to get Bridgewater-Raritan High started.

For the Panthers, however, the wait was well worthwhile. After missing all 14 of their first-quarter shot attempts Saturday night, Liz O'Rourke finally hit the ignition and 12th-seeded Bridgewater-Raritan eventually rallied for a 36-33 triumph over Somerville in Somerset County Tournament second-round action.

"Eventually they had to start going in," said O'Rourke. "And a lot of the time once you hit one, they keep falling, so it builds your confidence."

For a while, it appeared neither team was going to do much more than go through warm-up drills and stretching exercises. Somerville's two wall-mounted scoreboards weren't working and after repair attempts proved futile, a much smaller portable version was brought in and placed on the scorers' table, delaying the tip-off until 6:30.

While the Panthers (4-15) missed one shot after another and also committed three turnovers, the fifth-seeded Pioneers (14-3) built an 11-2 first-period advantage.

But O'Rourke sank a 15-foot jumper on the initial possession of the second quarter and hit two more during the next few minutes, and the Panthers were on-track and back in contention against an SHS team that wasn't playing at peak efficiency.

While O'Rourke, a senior on a very young squad, provided the stabilizing hot hand in the early going, the deciding play was turned in by 5-foot-10 freshman Kristen Helmstetter, whose three-point play off a steal-and-layup gave B-R a 34-33 lead with 2:32 to go.

"We're young, but you can only use youth and inexperience as an excuse so much," said B-R Head Coach Jeff Coates. "Tonight was a sign of our maturity and growth. I thought we composed ourselves well after that tough start and did the things we needed to do to put ourselves in a position to win the game."

At the end, no one did that better than Helmstetter, who's been a shining beacon of future hope during a difficult campaign. With Somerville setting up its offense, she swooped in to pick off a pass, raced in for a layup and was fouled while doing so. She hit the free throw and the Panthers — who actually also led late in the third period — were in front 34-33.

The Pioneers missed two shots and after the teams traded turnovers, the Panthers gained possession with 1:03 remaining.

Because Somerville still had several fouls to give to put B-R in the bonus situation at the free-throw line (and therefore represent the Pioneers' best chance at getting the ball back), senior guard Sarah Barreto did most of the ball-handling for the Panthers during the sequence and she finally ended up at the charity stripe with 14 seconds left.

She calmly hit two in a row for a 36-33 lead and the Pioneers, after in-bounding the ball, couldn't get closer than 35 feet of the hoop and never got a shot off as time expired.

"We were just thinking 'No threes' when they had that last chance," said O'Rourke. "If they take a shot, don't foul, and let them take a two if they were going to do that. But we played pretty good defense there at the end."

Especially against senior Caiti Laub, Somerville's 1000-point scorer and most dangerous offensive threat. Laub had almost single-handedly carried SHS to a comeback against the Panthers in last year's regular-season game, which B-R finally won in overtime despite Laub's three-point onslaught and 21 total points, all of which came after the halftime break.

This time, she finished with 13 points and was held to two second-half buckets by the Panthers' rugged man-to-man defense.

Now Bridgewater-Raritan is taking the next step in the county tourney as the Panthers will visit No. 4 seed Immaculata for today's 1 p.m. quarterfinal encounter.

The teams have already tangled twice in Skyland Conference-Delaware East Division games, Immaculata winning 63-51 at B-R Jan. 9 and again 51-46 last week.

Although B-R got off to a slow start against Somerville, the Pioneers' own difficulties (3-for-10 shooting, seven turnovers in the second quarter) helped keep things fairly close on the scoreboard.

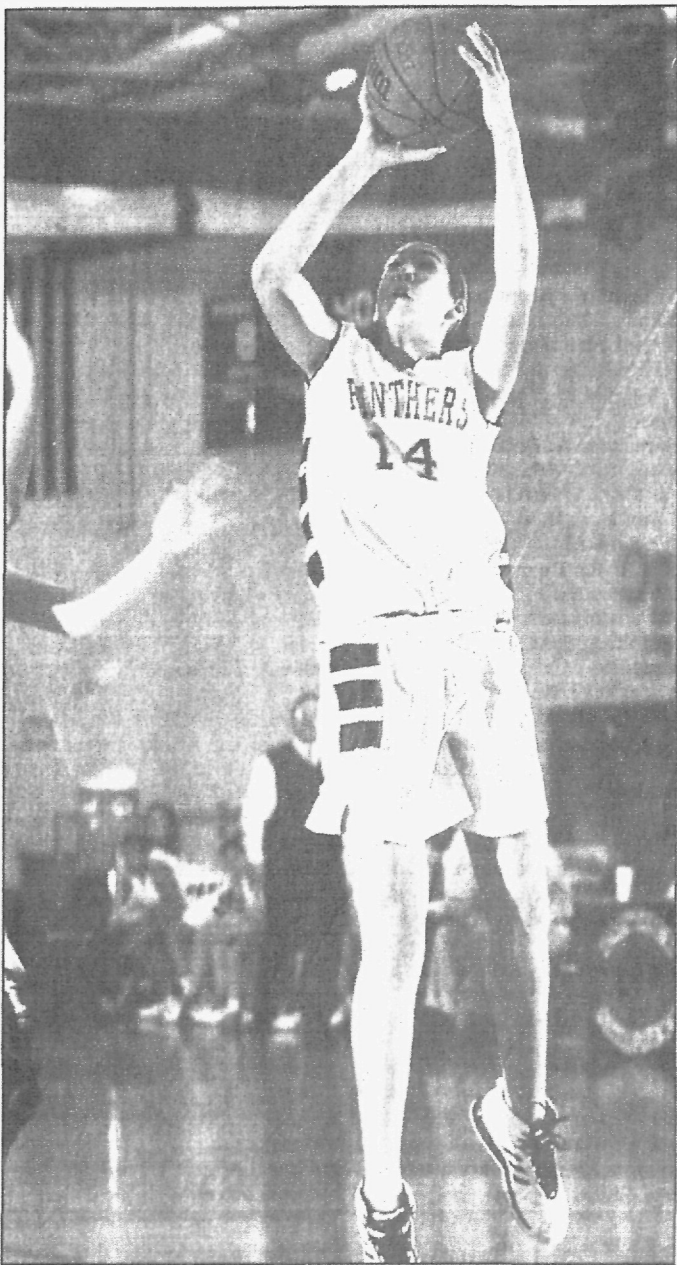

The Pioneers, up 19-14 at half-time, saw B-R take the lead during the first four minutes of the third period. Barreto hit an outside jumper, Danielle Burke canned a short baseline shot and Helmstetter scored in the lane, giving the visitors a 20-19 advantage as SHS missed its first five shots.

Sophomore Shannon Grunwald tossed in a trey to put the Pioneers back in front 22-20 but Helmstetter retaliated with a 17-foot jumper, tying the game. Back-to-back buckets by O'Rourke put B-R in front 26-22 with 1:22 left in the quarter.

Laub then hit six straight points for a 28-26 Somerville lead early in the final stanza before Helmstetter connected from the baseline to even things up again. SHS tallied two more shots for a 32-28 lead and had the ball again with less than four minutes to go.

But the Pioneers turned it over and B-R freshman Lauren Sbrilli capitalized by firing in a three-pointer. After Laub hit one of two from the foul line, putting SHS up 33-31 with 3:09 left, Helmstetter came through with her game-breaking play moments later.

Freshman Kristen Helmstetter scored 10 points, including a critical three-point play in the game's waning moments, to help Bridgewater-Raritan High knock off Somerville 36-33 in last week's Somerset County Tournament contest. The Panthers visit Immaculata this afternoon for a quarterfinal meeting.

Pioneers coast in SCT debut

Somerville visits Immaculata in today's quarterfinal round

SOMERVILLE — There were plenty of positives apparent to Joe D'Alessandro while watching his Somerville High squad dismember Gill St. Bernard's during Saturday night's Somerset County Tournament clash.

The Pioneers' typically aggressive man-to-man defense made each possession a major challenge for the Knights and their ball movement and passing created an inordinate amount of inside shot opportunities, the vast majority of which were converted as seventh-seeded Somerville breezed to a 67-37 second-round triumph.

Now, however, D'Alessandro and assistant coach Josh Hobbs realize the Pioneers (14-3) have to show they can do pretty much the same coming down the home stretch of their schedule, which resumed with Wednesday's Skyland Conference meeting with a tough Voorhees club.

"I think the kids are improving on offense," said D'Alessandro following the SCT victory, which set up today's 3 p.m. quarterfinal-round meeting at borough rival Immaculata. "It's good to actually see us doing in a game the things we've been working on in practice. That's an encouraging sign for a coach. But we obviously have to do that against better competition — that's the true test."

"We have to make those cuts and handle the ball against some real good teams coming up. We have seven games left and if you added up the records of those teams it would scare you. There aren't a lot of losses and there's a pile of wins, so we have to play like this in every one of those games to have a chance."

They'll certainly have to be at their best this afternoon when they take on second-seeded Immaculata in a rematch of their Jan. 20 encounter, which the host Spartans won 73-55 while shooting 57 percent from the floor. Both teams had entered that game with just one loss each.

"We're on kind of a roll right now," said SHS senior guard Dan Ford, "and if we keep playing as hard as we are, we probably have a pretty good chance at beating them. They have a lot of real good shooters, so we have to get out on their shots to contest them."

Noting that Watchung Hills had edged Immaculata 60-59 last week, D'Alessandro indicated he was going to call Gene McAteer, his friend and the WHHS head coach, to find out some details on how the Warriors accomplished the task.

"We'll try and do the same thing," said D'Alessandro. "But I think when you play Immaculata, you have to try to get them out of their sets. If you let them run all those plays, they have a lot of kids who can make shots, not just one or two. We have to try and disrupt them, try to get through picks better than we did the first time and get out on their shooters a little bit more."

"It's going to take a mammoth effort because they have so many weapons. I'd just like to represent ourselves better. The first time we started two sophomores and it was their first time in that environment, and it's definitely not the same as in other games. Hopefully they'll play better but even our seniors have to step up and give us a strong presence, and I think they will."

Everything was running at full efficiency against 10th-seeded Gill St. Bernard's (10-7), which was playing without second-leading scorer John Maple, a 6-foot-2 senior guard.

The Pioneers capitalized on their advantage in size and experience from the outset, forcing the Knights into 1-for-7 shooting and eight turnovers during the opening period as the home club built a 14-4 lead. GSB pulled within seven points early in the next stanza but that's as close as the Knights ever got.

Mike Naples, a 6-3 sophomore forward, topped the Pioneers with 21 points and seven rebounds. He missed the only shot he took in the opening period, when he briefly went to the bench with two personal fouls, but the rest of the way shot 10 for 12 with a variety of inside buckets.

Ford, who scored the game's first five points on a three-point bomb and a steal-and-layup, added 11 points and three assists and backcourt mate Sal Garfi had 10 points. Luke Schulman had great success finding the open man on some slick cuts as he totaled eight assists.

The Pioneers connected on 57 percent of their field-goal attempts, 27 of their 29 baskets coming within 10 feet of the hoop, and they also went a 12-minute stretch spanning the first and third quarters without committing a turnover.

"Our strength is inside-out," said D'Alessandro, "and we're trying to focus on getting the ball inside and then if they collapse, we do have guys who can make some shots. But early in the season we were doing it just the opposite, and even though we were winning, after five or six games we got too three-point oriented and we just taking long shots and forgetting about the inside."

GSB, which had few offensive options once 6-3 senior Wes Stapleton had to give up the ball in the post, finished the game 13 for 39 from the floor.

"After Stapleton got the ball we all helped out on him," said Ford, "and we made him kick it out and there was nothing really out there for them."

After falling behind by 10 in the first period, the Knights, who played zone during the opening half, briefly stayed within striking range. Stapleton's inside shot made it 18-11 with 5:44 left in the second stanza but the Pioneers then embarked on a 14-2 tear, six of the points directly resulting from GSB turnovers.

Anthony Appezzato's two free throws with 1:26 to go lifted the Pioneers' lead to 32-14 and, after Gill's Andrew Williams scored against the SHS press, Naples canned two driving layups for a 36-16 half-time cushion.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL

Maglione exits as B-R coach

By ALLAN CONOVER
Sports Editor

BRIDGEWATER — As he was reciting a list of the numerous coaching addresses he's called home, Tony Maglione offered a few more thoughts when Voorhees High came up.

"That's the place I probably never should've left," he commented Saturday afternoon. "It was close to my home, we had some nice success there. I don't know why I ever left."

He doubtlessly asked himself the same question on a few occasions during the past three football seasons at Bridgewater-Raritan. Maglione, whose Panthers posted a 9-21 record during that time, decided to resign last week.

"Let's face it — the last three years we haven't been burn-burners," said Maglione, who'll remain at the school as a physical education teacher while hoping to get another coaching opportunity elsewhere. "I gave it my best shot. Now it's time for somebody else to take a turn."

"I appreciated all the positive input I got from the positive parents," he added, "but there also were some negative parents. I just hate going out like this. It's not a good feeling."

Maglione replaced Kirk Hamrah, who stepped down following the 2003 campaign after coaching B-R five years. Following a rocky start, Hamrah's last two Panther squads went 15-6 and earned Group 4 state playoff berths.

But, for a variety of reasons, the Panthers couldn't continue that trend. They went 3-7 during Maglione's initial season, 4-6 in 2005 and 2-8 this past fall.

"Everyone thinks you should be so strong because you're this big Group 4 school," said Maglione, "but, for one, you're playing other big schools in this conference and you're not the 'big school' on everyone's schedule. And you have to have guys commit to doing this year-round. If you're not playing another sport, you should be working out, and that hasn't happened often enough here."

"So whoever it is who's going to take over, he has to sell that idea."

When the B-R East and West systems consolidated in the fall of 1991, the new Bridgewater-Raritan High enjoyed some immediate success under Head Coach Bill Savage. But Maglione pointed out some of those players were developed at B-R West — where he was the head coach and had won three straight division championships.

"You had two teams basically coming together and they won right away," he said. "Then Bridgewater-Raritan developed its own personality. What it's become now, is that an athlete who doesn't specialize in one sport and then shows up in August and thinks they're going to be able to win like when we first merged — it's not going to happen."

Maglione, who underwent prostate cancer surgery in November 2004 and has been healthy since, feels the Panthers could be ready for a quick about-face under the new coach, which likely will come from in-house.

"Before I decided to resign, at the end of the year I met with the incoming seniors and I think they're doing a nice job selling that idea," he said. "There are a lot of kids in there lifting weights and maybe this class can turn the corner, and I hope they do. I wish the next guy good luck. I really do hope they turn it around."

Maglione, a Watchung Hills High graduate who's always favored the wishbone offense, initially was the head coach at B-R West from 1979-84 and again from 1987-90, and his last three Golden Falcon squads won Mid-State Conference-Raritan Division titles.

The Lebanon Township resident had brief head-coaching stints at South Brunswick, Bernards and Dayton Regional-Springfield (which improved from 1-8 to 6-3 during his season there), while he spent five successful seasons at Voorhees from 1995-99.

Maglione also was an assistant at Watchung Hills and Hillsborough, was the special teams coordinator at Lehigh University in 2001 and the previous year coached the B-R High freshmen — the same class of athletes that turned out to be big winners on the varsity level in 2002 and '03 under Hamrah.
