Help them reach goal

Marilyn O'Brien, an 11-year-old Hillsborough resident, wants to walk in the upcoming Avon Walk for Breast Cancer, held in Washington, D.C. on May 5-6, but both she and her brother, James O'Brien, 13, are under the age requirement, which is 18.

Marilyn wants to walk because her aunt, Nancy, died Christmas Eve 1995 from breast cancer, just a few months before Marilyn was born.

Marilyn has since grown up with the word cancer in her life. She has only ever listened to stories about the aunt she never knew. Unfortunately there are very few who do not know someone who has had breast cancer touch their lives.

Marilyn even says that she wants to be a scientist when she grows up to try to help find a cure.

The O'Brien's are raising money that will then be donated to walkers who have not been able to collect the $1,800 needed to take part in the walk.

Tax-free donations can be made by check to Avon Walk for Breast Cancer, Tax ID #13-6128447, and sent to Barbara Searle, 775 Mill Lane Hillsborough, NJ 08844. Elys Diner in Hillsborough has a canister for donations or call (908) 581-6485.

This issue marks the final edition of The Chronicle.

The paper has its roots as the Bound Brook Chronicle, which published in Bound Brook from 1878 to 1892. The paper's name was then changed to The Chronicle, a name that stuck from 1892 to 1941 before the paper's name changed again, this time to Bound Brook Chronicle.

That title lasted through 1960, when the paper changed names again — this time back to The Chronicle.

Bound Brook itself was incorporated in 1891, although it was first settled in 1681, having been established near the Bound Brook stream of the same name. A wooden bridge over the Raritan River was erected as early as 1761 and named Queen's Bridge in 1767, becoming one of the borough's most famous landmarks. Later it became a covered bridge, and during the American Revolutionary War, the bridge was used repeatedly by both sides, including during the Battle of Bound Brook in 1777.

In more recent times, the paper has been sold several times before being purchased by NJN Publishing. After C. Palmer Bateman Jr., the president of Somerset Press Inc., which published The Chronicle, passed away in 1986, the chain was purchased by Malcolm Forbes.

In 1997, Forbes Inc. sold the paper — as well as the rest in the chain — to North Jersey Newspapers Company, which later changed its name to NJN Publishing.

NJN Publishing, in 2003, merged The Chronicle with several Middlesex County-based newspapers it also published: The Chronicle in the Middlesex-Dunellen area, The Piscataway Review, The Reporter in South Plainfield and The Metuchen-Edison Review.

Although The Chronicle is ceasing publication, NJN Publishing will continue to produce The Somerset Reporter & Messenger-Gazette.

That paper will re-launch next week with a new format.

"The newspaper is changing to a more compact, easier to read tabloid format that will feature full color on all pages," announced

THE CHRONICLE ARCHIVES
Main Street in Somerville at the turn of the last century. Horses — not horsepower — still rules the as-yet unpaved streets.

Craig Turpin, executive editor.

The addition of color will mean a dynamic presentation of advertising and local community information for readers, said Turpin. "As we're making this improvement, we're also going to combine the paid circulation paper The Somerset Messenger-Gazette with The Reporter," Turpin explained. "We found that most readers of the Gazette also received The Reporter."

Merging of the two titles will eliminate some duplication of effort and cost, and put all of the paper's efforts into a single publication.

Health department issues flood fact sheets

On Monday, the Middlesex County Public Health Department delivered fact sheets on flooding and mold to 20 municipalities within the county.

This was accomplished by four health department employees conveying the health education materials to the assigned Registered Environmental Health Specialist within the municipality. After the specialist received the information it was then provided to the local libraries, municipal buildings and other key areas within the towns.

Additionally, facts sheets on septic and well maintenance were provided to the southern county municipalities of East Brunswick, Monroe, Plainsboro and Cranbury. Those with questions or concerns regarding their well or septic can call the Middlesex County Water Pollution Division at (732) 745-8856.

In order to provide these essential materials to residents and retail food establishment owners the Middlesex County Reprographics Department produced over 13,000 assorted copies of the seven different fact sheets. Fact sheets can be also be acquired by visiting <http://co.middlesex.nj.us/publichealth/health-alert.asp>.

Simultaneously the department performed 63 retail food inspections in Milltown as a result of loss of power within the municipality. An Inspection Division Strike Team performed the inspections to ensure that food products were being held at proper temperatures. All meat and dairy products that were found to be out of temperature for more than four hours were voluntarily destroyed.

"The retail food establishment owners cooperated fully with the REHSs during their inspections. Establishments even utilized dry ice and refrigerated trucks to ensure safe temperatures of their food products," stated David A. Papi, director/health officer of the Middlesex County Public Health Department. "As you know it is important to protect yourself and your family members during an emergency.

Remember to practice basic hygiene and wash your hands with soap and water for 20 seconds if you come into contact with flood waters and keep children and pets out of flooded areas until cleanup has been completed. If your retail food establishment has been affected by the flood, promptly call your local health department."

Those with concerns about flood water and/or mold can contact their local health department or call the county health department at (732) 745-3100.

A variety of local businesses are providing assistance to victims of last week's flooding.

Bill Vince, owner of the Bill Vince Auto Group, has announced that his dealerships are teaming up to donate $10,000 to the Bound Brook Flood Relief Fund.

"We wanted to do something meaningful for the victims of this flood," stated Bill Vince, "and we wanted to do it right away."

County food network aiding flood victims

EDISON — MC Foods, Middlesex County's emergency food network, has offered to donate cereal and other goods to a community food pantry that was flooded in the April 15 nor'easter.

Hands of Hope for the Community lost 50 boxes of cereal and bundles of clothing. The food pantry is in the basement of St. James Episcopal Church, which got 6 inches of water.

"We are going to help stock their pantry as soon as the basement is sanitized," said Jennifer Apostol, coordinator of the MC Foods program for the Middlesex County Improvement Authority.

MC Foods is an acronym for Middlesex County Food Organization Outreach Distribution Services. The agency has a long history of helping neighbors, donating 1,000 pounds of supplies to the Franklin Township Food Bank that was flooded by Hurricane Floyd.

MC Foods recently wrapped up its annual school food drive. The 164 public and private schools — the highest participation level in the drive's 11-year history — collected 50 tons of food to be distributed to 60 food pantries and soup kitchens.

The event is a joint effort of the Middlesex County Roads Department, Middlesex County Public Property Department, Middlesex County Parks and Recreation Department and MCIA Division of Recycling. Once containers and grocery bags are delivered to the participating schools, students and faculty have two weeks to bring in supplies. Several schools collected money that was used to purchase supermarket gift cards.

The top three schools were Middlesex County Academy for Science, Math and Engineering Technology, which collected 5,782 pounds of food; Campbell School in Metuchen, which collected 5,650 pounds; and East Brunswick High School, which collected 3,650 pounds.

Apostol said she is pleased with the strong showing of support, especially given the shortage of food MC Foods was experiencing prior to the food drive.

"The students really came together to help the community," she said. "Everyone should feel very proud."

Freeholder Blanca Valenti asked that everyone continue to support MC Foods throughout the year.

"We have a good amount of food now but it will be gone in no time," the freeholder said. "We ask that residents continue to drop off food at one of our permanent collection sites."

Residents may drop off food at public libraries in Dunellen, East Brunswick, Edison, Metuchen, Milltown, Monroe Township, North Brunswick, Perth Amboy, Plainsboro, South Brunswick, South Plainfield, Spotswood and Woodbridge.

Food pantries and soup kitchens are currently in need of peanut butter, tuna, cereal, macaroni and cheese, rice, soup and other nonperishable goods.

MC Foods is looking for volunteers to help out during the National Association of Letter Carriers' annual food drive on Saturday, May 12. Volunteers are needed throughout the day to help letter carriers with loading food collected on their routes and sorting food collected during the school food drive. If you are interested, e-mail ja@mciauth.com or call Apostol at (732) 729-0880.

Middlesex County announces a plan to help the homeless

The Middlesex County Comprehensive Emergency Assistance Services Committee has presented to the Board of Chosen Freeholders "Under One Roof," a 10-year plan to end homelessness in Middlesex County.

The plan, presented in early March, addresses issues such as affordable housing, supportive housing, mainstream resources, health care and discharge planning.

Instead of relying on emergency shelters, hotels or motels, the plan recommends the Housing First model, which immediately houses an individual or family in an apartment and provides security deposits, rent and supportive services.

Eighty-five percent of individuals involved in Housing First across the country remain in housing. The cost for Housing First is $1,200 a month to house a family in an apartment compared to $2,400 a month for an emergency placement.

Based on its 2006 Homeless Survey, the committee determined that at least 500 units of housing are needed to end homelessness in 10 years in Middlesex County.

The plan is "ambitious, realistic and achievable," said Freeholder Blanca B. Valenti, liaison to the Middlesex County Department of Human Services, which administers the committee.

"I look forward to the freeholders' endorsement of the plan and I am encouraging the board to support a kick-off event to launch the program," she said.

Last year 830 homeless people were counted by the Middlesex County Point in Time count of the homeless. The count found 182 people living on the street or places not meant for human habitation. There were 197 homeless families and 99 chronically homeless individuals; 18 families were unsheltered.

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development has mandated that all counties funded under the homeless Continuum of Care develop 10-year plans to end homelessness.

Local teens help to make a difference

The Bridgewater Recreation Volunteering Program MADE, Making A Difference Everywhere, was developed two years ago by two high school students, Nicolette Ash and Anila Kumar, as an organization to provide volunteering opportunities to teens over the Bridgewater-Raritan area.

With school, extra-curricular activities and teens in mind, MADE always schedules events that are after school and local. As teens move forward in their academic journey, they will find that community service hours are imperative for college bound students.

MADE is a program run by teens, for teens and continues to make it easy for teens to access volunteering opportunities around their area in order to receive their community service hours for schools, scholarships, and religious groups.

By promoting volunteerism to adolescents around, numerous organizations will be benefited by the extra help and in the end, hopefully achieve MADE's main goal: "Making A Difference Everywhere."

Along with the other help services MADE provides, MADE's web site contains members' up-to-date community service hours within the click of a button. Some of the events that MADE partakes in includes working with the elderly, the homeless, disabled/handicapped children/adults, animals, the earth and other major organizations dedicated to helping others. MADE is a program for teens by teens.

When MADE heard about the tornado that struck the Enterprise High School in Enterprise, Alabama early March, they felt it was time to take action and help all of the students get back to a point where hope was not too far away.

In one month, MADE was able to collect hundreds of backpacks and school supplies from companies like, Staples, Associated Printing and Mailing, Mehl Electric Co., Inc., Sanofi-Aventis, Edward Leske Co., Bondland Industries, Inc., Sweet Signs Systems, Inc. and all Bridgewater-Raritan residents who contributed to this cause. Others who helped were A. Duie Pyle, whose staff helped with shipping, and National Starch and Chemical Company.

The Enterprise High School students are receiving a new backpack stuffed with binders, pencils, and other necessary school supplies, along with other little surprise to remind them they are not alone.

On April 3, several MADE members attended the backpack stuffing event at Ash's house. Bright and early in the morning they got ready for the event, lining her deck with tables and chairs, and then situating the school supplies and backpacks in their proper places. They began stuffing the 100-plus backpacks and the thousands of school supplies, and at 1 p.m. Bridgewater Mayor Patricia Flannery and Christine Schneider, the superintendent of recreation, came to visit them to see how they were doing.

MADE has given teens a chance to not only get active in their community, but a chance to reach out to kids half way across the country.

On Tuesday, April 17, the 1,000-pounds of donations, along with a scrapbook of

Stop by for a good rest

HILLSBOROUGH — Sleep for Life, the largest sleep disorders treatment program in New Jersey, will host an open house on Saturday, April 28, from 10 a.m. to noon.

The free event will feature a tour of the facility's 20 hotel-caliber rooms, including accommodations for adults and children, as well as an informational seminar about identifying sleep disorders given by Dr. Carol Ash, medical director of Sleep for Life. A complimentary continental breakfast is included with the program.

Sleep for Life opened in January to offer patients the highest standard of care in sleep medicine. Sleep disorders are still largely undiagnosed in this country. According to a recent Institute of Medicine report, as many as 70 million Americans may be affected by chronic sleep disorders.

These conditions can decrease quality of life, lead to life-threatening illness, impact workplace productivity and threaten public safety.

Up to 75 percent of people with certain serious sleep disorders go undiagnosed, and many are misdiagnosed. Sleep loss has increased in the United States in recent years due in part to longer workdays and more time spent using computers and watching television, the study found. Sleep disorders include conditions such as chronic insomnia, sleep apnea and restless legs syndrome. Some conditions, like apnea, can increase the risk of heart disease, stroke and diabetes.

Sleep for Life is an affiliate of Somerset Medical Center.

Somerset Medical Center is a nationally accredited, regional medical center providing comprehensive emergency, medical/surgical and rehabilitative services and a broad range of community programs to Central New Jersey residents. The medical center is a major clinical affiliate of the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey. Robert Wood Johnson Medical School and a clinical research affiliate of The Cancer Institute of New Jersey.

The Sleep for Life center is located at 331 Route 206 North. Reservations are required; call (888) 735-7378 or e-mail info@sleepforlifeusa.com.

Rutgers for Kids getting ready for the summer

Come summer, Rutgers University won't be just for college students anymore.

Students in Grades 6-10 will be sharing educational and fun experiences with the usual college-age crowd if they enroll in the inaugural Summer Program at Rutgers for Kids, or SPARK, three-week sessions designed for youngsters to explore and learn in an exciting, diverse and academically inspiring atmosphere. The weekday program is limited to 200 children per session. Sessions will run from July 9-27 and July 30-Aug. 17.

The Cook Campus Center, off Route 1 South in New Brunswick, will be the hub for activities. Parents will leave their children between 7-8 a.m. and pick the kids up between 5-6 p.m. Tuition will include breakfast, lunch and snacks as well as books and supplies.

Registration is ongoing and SPARK is inviting applications for staff positions, especially from middle school and high school teachers. For information and fees, visit www.spark.rutgers.edu or call (866) 640-0162.

Unlike the school year SPARK will have no tests, quizzes or homework to deal with.

"Children will select from a wide range of academic courses stimulating and encouraging curiosity, interest and a passion for learning — inside and outside the classroom," according to Rosa Salgado Rodriguez, assistant director of the Summer Session at Rutgers.

"Our emphasis is on fun-filled, hands-on learning," she said.

Grades 6-9 will choose two full courses in the morning plus two mini-courses or activities in the afternoon. Grade 10 will choose two mini-courses or activities in the morning plus two full courses in the afternoon. Day trips are scheduled each Friday.

"Mini-courses might be scaled-down versions of full academic courses, extracurricular activities or a discovery of something fresh, original and diverse," Salgado Rodriguez said.

Among the courses are "Creative Cartooning," "World Histories and Mysteries," "Un viaje a Mexico" and "CSI" for Grades 6-7; digital photography, web design, "Guitars and Politics" and "Weather Watching" for Grades 8-9; "Just the Facts Please," "Reel History," "DNA and You" and "Respect for Money" for Grade 10.

To work off their energy, students can try two levels of cheerleading, an "Introduction to Wrestling" and "Yoga for Teens." Swimming is another option.

Conservation Corps is seeking new volunteers

Individuals are being sought for the Middlesex County Conservation Corps, whose mission is "to protect and preserve natural areas from misuse, polluters and the forces of nature" at the more than 6,000 acres of open space owned and maintained by Middlesex County.

The corps was proposed by Freeholder Director David B. Crabel and is administered by the county Department of Parks and Recreation. The corps began work last fall and experienced tremendous success with several projects throughout the county.

Volunteer work will continue this spring, primarily at the 1,700-acre John A. Phillips Preserve in Old Bridge. Several weekend projects are planned, including reforestation, restoring native plants, clean-ups, trail construction, plant and animal inventories.

No special skills are required although volunteers should enjoy physical work and have an interest in being outdoors. Individuals and groups are welcome.

For an application, visit www.co.middlesex.nj.us/parksrecreation or call (732) 745-5988.

Patriots sign former Immaculata player

2007 line-up takes shape as team heads south

BRIDGEWATER — The Somerset Patriots continue to finalize their 2007 line-up as they begin spring training in Florida.

The Patriots announced the signings of right-handed pitcher Casey Cahill and outfielder Sean Gamble.

Cahill posted an 11-0 record and a 0.44 earned-run average as an Immaculata senior in 2000. He allowed four runs and struck out 109 batters in 63 innings to cap a career that included a school-record 28 wins.

Cahill has experience in the Baltimore Orioles organization, including time at the Triple-A level. Cahill, a New Brunswick native, was drafted in the 10th round of the 2000 draft by the Orioles.

He joins former Patriots Chris Eickhorst and Tony Gsell as Immaculata standouts that have been signed by the Patriots.

Gamble was a sixth-round draft choice of the Philadelphia Phillies in 2004.

He is a career .269 hitter with 105 runs scored in 212 games and spent the past two seasons in Lakewood.

Gamble is the son of Oscar Gamble, who had a 17-year Major League career that included time with the New York Yankees and the Philadelphia Phillies.

Over the last week, the team had also announced the signing of former Major League outfielder Adrian Brown.

Brown has nine seasons of Major League experience with the Pittsburgh Pirates, Boston Red Sox, Kansas City Royals, and the Texas Rangers. He has a Major League career .258 batting average with 166 runs, 293 hits, 44 doubles, eight triples, 11 home runs, 86 RBI, and 45 stolen bases in 447 games played.

Brown played 25 games at the Major League level for the Rangers during the 2006 season. He also spent 36 games at the Triple-A level last season, and finished with a .295 batting average 15 runs, 36 hits, 11 RBI, and 11 stolen bases.

Brown has a minor league career batting average of .285 with 752 runs scored, 1,256 hits, 174 doubles, 57 triples, 47 home runs, and 384 RBI in 1,142 games played.

"Adrian's experience at the Major League level will make him a threat in our lineup. He's a guy who spent time last season in the Majors and has shown to be a solid player at every level of the game," said Patrick McVerry, president and general manager of the Somerset Patriots Baseball Club.

The team also announced the re-signing of centerfielder Mike Lockwood.

Lockwood played for Somerset during the first half of the 2006 season before signing a contract to play in Taiwan.

Lockwood hit a .336 with 20 runs, 45 hits, seven doubles, six home runs, 15 RBI and eight stolen bases in 36 games for the Patriots in 2006.

Lockwood had one of the most memorable home runs for Somerset on June 6 of last season. The Patriots were on the verge of being no-hit against Joe Gannon and the Newark Bears. In the seventh inning and the bases loaded, Lockwood got the Patriots' only hit, a grand slam, that gave Somerset a 4-2 win.

Lockwood spent the 2005 season at the Triple-A level for the Red Sox in Pawtucket of the International League.

The team also signed right-handed pitcher Jason

Anderson and catcher Michel Hernandez.

As well, the team signed outfielder Noah Hall.

Hall spent the 2006 season in Double-A for the Orioles in Bowie.

The Three-Time Atlantic League Champion Somerset Patriots have placed all tickets on sale for the upcoming 2007 season, the team's 10th Season Celebration. The season begins on Friday, May 4 at Commerce Bank Ballpark for a 7:05 p.m. game against the Newark Bears. For tickets, call (908) 252-0700 or visit www.somersetpatriots.com.

Dunellen fire co. seeking donations

DUNELLEN — The Dunellen Defender Fire Company Number One is always a phone call away. Twenty-four hours a day and 365 days a year, volunteer fire company members are on call, protecting Dunellen residents, as well as providing mutual aid to neighboring fire companies in extreme emergencies.

Each year, the Dunellen Fire Company asks Dunellen residents, as well as local businesses for donations, monetary and otherwise, to keep this free and necessary service going. The 2006-07 Annual Fund Drive is currently going on.

All donations are used to fund operational expenses for the firehouse, located at 231 Madison Avenue in the town, as well as a $500 college scholarship for a Dunellen High School resident. Previous annual campaigns have funded upgrades to the building, a new blacktop parking lot, allowing easier access for fire trucks, and a new furnace.

"The Dunellen Fire Company relies on the support of local residents and businesses as much as they rely on us for emergency response," said Ben Gamecki, president of the Dunellen Fire Company. "We are committed to providing unsurpassed service to our community and sincerely thank the residents and business owners for their support of the Dunellen Fire Company."

Donations may be mailed to the firehouse at 231 Madison Avenue, Dunellen, NJ 08812. For more information on the fire company, or to join this prestigious organization, call the firehouse at (732) 968-5653.

Founded in 1896, the Dunellen Fire Department is a volunteer organization of over 35 highly trained members that serves Dunellen, New Jersey. The Dunellen Fire Department provides residents of the town fire prevention education, safety programs, and emergency response to fire and other hazardous situations. For more information, or to register to be a volunteer, visit www.dunellenfd.com.

Movie inspires restaurant's name

The Meadows at Middlesex Golf Course, Plainsboro, now has a full-service restaurant that takes its name from a famous golf movie.

Caddyshack is open to feed the daily golfers, golf league players and outing groups that play on the 18-hole course.

"We are pleased to welcome this restaurant to the course because the [owner is] so enthusiastic about providing top-quality food and service to our golfers," according to course Manager Susan Disario.

Caddyshack, owned and operated by VS Services LLP, offers a wide breakfast menu of baked goods, sandwiches, omelets and a variety of breakfast platters. In addition, the lunch and dinner menus range from salads and deli sandwiches to panini creations and an assortment of traditional hamburgers.

"We are pleased to take our full range of restaurant experience and create this new restaurant for the golfers," said Varun Kalra, who with Sharif Latif is a proprietor of Caddyshack.

"We are especially excited about catering lunches and dinners for the many golf outings ... and we will create special menus to meet the needs of each outing," Kalra said.

Open at 6:30 a.m. seven days a week to accommodate early-morning golfers, Caddyshack is also open to the general public. It is expected that people who work nearby will enjoy this new lunchtime spot and those in adjoining apartment and condominium communities have a new option for dinner. Caddyshack also offers catering services to local businesses for office events and special functions.

Close to 30,000 rounds of golf were played at The Meadows at Middlesex last year. It is a favorite public course for many local charity golf fundraisers because outgoing prices are among the most reasonable in the area, just $50 per golfer for greens fee and cart. The course is also home to a number of golf leagues.

For more informations, call Disario at (609) 799-4000 or Latif at (609) 799-9626.
