

Weathering the Storm

Emergency Management Team Commended for Quick Response

By Patricia Abbott

After a night resembling a disaster movie, South Plainfield awoke on Friday morning to clear blue skies and sunshine; a perfect fall day. It was hard to believe that the town was operating under a state of emergency. Yet Thursday was anything but a typical day in South Plainfield. Hurricane Floyd ripped through town depositing huge amounts of water and causing devastation to residents and businesses.

In preparation for "Floyd" the courtroom in Borough Hall was turned over to Emergency Management at 5 p.m. on Wednesday night. At approximately 11 a.m. on Thursday morning the center was officially opened and Emergency Management Coordinator Mike Zushma began what would become more than a 48 hour day. At 12:30 p.m. on Thursday only Zushma and Emergency Management Logistics Officer Linda Zushma were in the command center, fielding calls and keeping a close eye on the storm. The phone rang continuously and Mike alternated between handling calls and radio dispatch, helping out wherever he could. A chart on the wall listed the already flooded streets.

During the course of the day and continuing on into the night police, fire and rescue squad members were kept hard at work answering calls. Mayor Gallagher and council members arrived to assist with the calls and stayed to help out for many hours. Business Administrator John Corica spent 24 hours at the command center.

Councilman Vinnie Buttiglieri arrived at the command center at approximately 3 p.m. He described the scene as extremely tense but well coordinated. Volunteers sat at a bank of phones surrounded by radios and other equipment and funneled the never-ending phone calls to the correct departments. As the storm worsened and calls poured in Buttiglieri noted that Mike Zushma, Fire Chief Joe Abbruzzese and Police Chief Steve Merkler began to prioritize the calls after evaluating each situation. When water in flooded homes and basements climbed to over a foot and posed fire hazards, fire official were sent out to turn off utilities and or begin pumping water out ing water out. During the evening, Council-

Busi-Corica annand tiglieri meter at Woman Darlene Pinto arrived with dinner for volunteers. She was unable to stay too long due to serious flooding in her own home. Knowing that Sacred Heart School had flooding problems in the past, Darlene went to the over to check on the school and found that the water had filled the red in deep stairwell and burst open the cafeteria door, filling the room with four feet of water. South Plainfield High School had to forfeit their football game with John F. Kennedy High School scheduled last Saturday. When the Observer asked the athletic department for a comment, we received a fax from Athletic Director Mike Buggey. He stated that an investigation

He stated that an investigation was started after information came to the attention of school officials on Tuesday, September 14. It was determined that a number of South Plainfield players were involved in incidents which violated team rules and our school district policy. The students involved will be facing disciplinary action from the school district, as well as sanctions from the athletic department regarding future participation.

ticipation. Buggy further added that the coaching staff along with school officials regretted the necessity of this action and extend apologies to the South Plainfield community and to the John F. Kennedy players, coaches, and fans. In as much as the issues involved impact on students' privacy rights, there will be no further public comment on the specifics of the incident.

During the height of the storm last Thursday, kids were at Spring Lake Park jumping off the bridge and swimming in the lake. Police, who were trying to cope with the storm emergency, were called to the park to chase the kids away. The police noted that the park was closed at the time and should have been unoccupied.

Street and Oak Tree Avenue were redesigned and a left hand turn installed at the intersection. New decorative lights were also installed in the area.

Business Association Meets

Discusses Law Suit, Railroad Car, Downtown Flags

The Business Association held their first meeting since the summer break. Issues addressed include the recent lawsuit by Keith Lewis, the railroad car, the downtown flags and candidates night.

Keith Lewis is suing the Busi-ness Association for a Cadillac he claims he won at the Business Association Golf Outing. He is suing for the Cadillac and $275,000 in damages. The Busi-ness Association has offered to buy Lewis the Cadillac and take over the legal proceedings. Lewis refused the offer, and is also seeking a monetary settlement. The lawyers have made offers and counter-offers, but it seems the case will be settled in court.

The railroad car has been painted and students from the Middlesex County Vo-Tech will be arriving soon to start work on the interior of the car. Art Muglia also said that he will be asking for help in moving the car and then the electric can then be hooked up

The downtown banners were installed in time for the parade. The park benches have been ordered and will be installed shortly. Planters will be installed in the spring. The Business Association is ontemplating the purchase of the ID Card Program for handi-capped children, including those living at Keystone. They are studying how many children this will include and the cost.

For the past seven years the Business Association has sponsored a candidates night at the high school. Invitations have already been sent out to the candidates. The date for the debate is Thursday, Oct. 21 at 7:30 p.m. The next meeting of the Busi-ness Association will be held on

dren? Are you interested in doing so? If you've answered "Yes" to either question, please stop in for the home schoolers meeting on Thursday morning at 10:30. It'll be an informal discussion about the concerns and benefits related to home schooling. Linda can give you more details about this, too.

Until September 30, our display wall will feature photos from the Highland Ave. Woods in conjunction with the Friends of the Woods' presentation last week. Our display cabinets feature wildlife items from our circulating collection. Also, we have several displays up for Banned Books Week.

A lot of kids have been asking us to get books about Pokemon, the very popular game and TV show. So, we've added a few Pokemon books to our Juvenile collection, with a few more on the way. Because of the high demand, these books can only be checked out for two weeks, instead of the usual four. If you want to get these books any time in the reasonably near future, you might try putting in a reserve.

Schools reopened on Wednesday, Sept. 22, despite the water restrictions and possible contamination warnings. A two-seek supply of bottled water and antiseptic hand wipes have been made available for all local schools.

Please remember when you use the Internet, sign up with a staff member at the desk. This will prevent any problems regarding us-age times and availability. We'll keep you posted if this changes. Here at the library, we try to provide the most up-to-date infornation available. So, we're asking for your help with something. We're trying to update our list of local organizations, mainly phone numbers and contact people. If you can assist us, please get in touch and help us revise our files. The Friends of the Library have decided to keep the bargains coming. The books in the sale area will continue to go for the low price of $1 per bag until further notice.

Last time, we let you know about some items that are coming soon to our collection. Here's word about some new periodicals that have recently been added. New titles include "Yahoo Internet Life," "Martha Stewart Living," "Teen People" and "This Old House." Back issues of these or any other magazine may be borrowed for two weeks.

That just about wraps it up for this week. Come heck or high water, we'll be back with more next time.

The area around the Highland Woods has been badly damaged by dirt bikers driving around and near the preserve. Councilman Dennis Cerami said police will be increasing pa-trols and that the neighboring residents will be asked to alert police when motor bikers are in the area. By calling right away, police may be able to catch the bikers in the act.

Business Advisory Board is Seeking New Members

The Business Advisory Board has a vacancy. If you are a busi-ness owner and wish to serve on this board, contact Councilwoman Darlene Pinto or Bob Longo. The group meets the first Wednesday of the month at Borough Hall.

Sacred Heart "Back to School" Night Rescheduled

Sacred Heart School was hard hit by the storm. The doors to the cafeteria were blown open from the force of the water out-side and the cafeteria was soon flooded with several feet of water, causing damage to the kitchen area. Freezers were floating in the flood water. Due to flooding "Back To School Night" has been resched-uled for Monday, Sept. 27 at 6:30 p.m.

Attendance is mandatory for parents and guardians of Sacred Heart Students. "Back To School Night" is a great way to hear first hand about the exciting events for the upcoming school year, as well as school policies and/or changes. It is also a great way to learn and understand the mission of the school.

After a prayer to be led by Rev. Michael A. McGuire, the teachers and staff will be introduced by Sister Cornelia, RVM. Refreshments will be served.

Alex Tierney Attends Johns Hopkins Program

When Alex Tierney finished the seventh grade at the Middle School he began his summer in a rather non-traditional way. Alex packed his bags and headed... back to school! Alex was accepted to attend the Johns Hopkins Cen-ter for Academic Advancement Summer Residential Program. The prestigious program is open to students who score in the 96 percentile on the school's standardized tests. The next step is SATs, the same test taken by high school juniors. If accepted, the seventh-tenth grade students embark on a trip to various college campuses throughout the country where they participate in an intense three-week course of study.

Alex traveled to Moravian College in Bethlehem, Pa. where he studied Animal Science. The course provided students with a introduction to the comparative study of animals. They learned the basic principles of anatomy and physiology while exploring how they vary in different species. Lab and field work were an integral part of the course. The class met five hours a day, five days a week, plus five two-hour evening study periods. Alex said, "The CAA course was hard but very enjoyable. It tested my skills and taught me a lot. I enjoyed the many hands on activities and laboratory projects that our class did.

The students live on campus under the supervision of resident assistants. A taste of college life early on might be considered difficult but Alex explained, "Being on my own and taking care of my responsibilities was challenging but ended up being a lot of fun and a great learning experience." When not in class there were a variety of activities for the stu-dents such as sports, arts and crafts, music and dances, or as Alex put it, "...fooling around with my friends and having fun."

A student with athletic prowess or artistic talents might attend a summer camp that focuses on their abilities. The Center for Academic Advancement seeks to "identify, nurture and develop academic talent among pre-college students." The course gives academically gifted students the chance to develop their skills. The program is an unusual educational experience that allows students to share their academic abilities and love of learning with their peers. The standardized test scores of the participants place them in the top two percent or higher of their age group. Sev-enty-one percent of the students attended public school.

Alex served as student council representative in sixth grade and treasurer in seventh grade. He is a member of the South Plainfield Soccer Club. He participates in the Recreation soccer and the basketball programs. He is an avid skier as well. Alex is the son of Donna and the late James Tierney of South Plainfield.

When asked about his summer experience Alex said, "My favorite part of going to CAA at Moravian College was having the opportunity to make friends from other countries. I now have friends in Hong Kong, Kenya, Japan, and many other countries and we keep in touch through e-mail."

During last week's Recreation Commission meeting, Mike English said that a date has finally been set on the groundbreaking and construction at the new PAL building. English said that the deadline for bids is Oct. 20. The acceptance of the bids has been set for Oct. 28 and groundbreaking will probably be on Oct. 29. The delay has been due, in part, to the illness of the architect.

The PAL building will remain open in some form for most of the construction. Plans call for a new all purpose room, expanding the weight room and upgrading the entire building. Mike English also announced that registration is now being taken for both Youth and Adult Basket-ball and Co-ed Volleyball. Soccer is beginning competition this week.

Registration for In-line hockey, a new program this year, will be accepted beginning shortly. Games will be played behind Borough Hall on the new courts. The kids have been playing hockey for awhile but without any supervision. The Rec-reation Department will be organizing play there.

Seniors will be starting line-danc-ing at the PAL starting on Wednes-day, Oct 6.

Red Cross Blood Drives

Blood drives sponsored by American Red Cross and the New Jersey Blood Services scheduled during October are listed below. For more information call (908) 353-2500, (908) 756-6414, (800) 933-2566 and (800) 403-7879.

The Red Cross needs to improve the number of blood donors. Only two percent of the general popula-tion give blood. Last year in Union County our services provided 14,000 units of blood to Union County hospitals, yet they only collected 10,000 units of blood from county residents.

The list of blood drives are:

Oct. 1-Knights of Columbus on Grove & South Ave. in Dunellen'from 3 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Oct. 10—Wilson Memorial Un. Church on 7 Valley Rd. in Watchung from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Oct. 11-St. Bernard's Church on 368 Summer Ave. in Plainfield from 3 to 8:30 p.m.

Oct. 13—Sacred Heart Church on 200 Randolph Rd. in South Plainfield from 3 to 8:30 p.m.

Oct. 18-United Church of Christ on 220 W. 7th Street in Plainfield from 3 to 8:30 p.m.

Oct 22—Evangel Church on 1251 Terrill Rd. in Scotch Plains from 3 to 9 p.m.

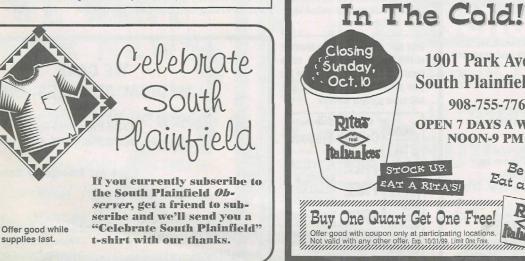

The Elks Tale:

The South Plainfield Elks were hit hard with the waters from hurricane Floyd. "We got real wet, but we're coming back to continue our help in town," say the devoted mem-bers of the lodge. "Our support for distressed families in our town, our scholarship ef-forts, the handicapped, Veterans and children's support will not be diminished!"

Weathering the Storm

Continued from page 1 there were the three separate calls reporting teenagers jumping from the bridge in Spring Lake Park and swimming in the dangerous floodwaters. "Our resources were stretched to the max and we should not have had to send officers to the park when they may be needed elsewhere," Gallagher said. He stressed that parents should be mindful of the whereabouts of their children in an emergency situation. Gallagher said another ongoing problem was the unnecessary calls for boats to help evacuate people from known flood areas. On Wednesday, flyers were delivered to homes in these areas (especially New Market Ave.), cautioning residents and detailing the expected flooding. They strongly suggested that residents make plans to leave their homes and stay with family or friends for the duration. On Thursday morning, officials went door to door warning residents to evacuate. It was explained to those who chose to stay that should they decide to evacuate later, boats might not be readily available. Gallagher explained that residents can not be forced them to leave.

As anticipated, a number of residents did call and request evacuation assistance. Boats were sent out to pick up the evacuees. Gallagher explained that this took precious minutes away from other potential emergencies. Once order is restored to town, the mayor plans to rewrite the law making evacuation in an emergency mandatory.

At 6 p.m. Thursday evening Riley School was opened to house the evacuees. R.A.C.E.S. radio operators were called in to help with communications, freeing up police officers so they could answer emergency calls. After the storm peaked, flood waters from Spring Lake and Bound Brook continued to rise filling the back parking lot of Borough Hall as well as the street in front of it. All borough vehicles, employee and volunteers' cars were relocated to McCriskin Funeral Home's parking lot and sandbags were put in place to stop the rising water.

Mayor Gallagher noted that Borough Hall is in a flood plain and it was fortunate that the command center did not have to be moved. When asked for his comments on the emergency management efforts and all the vol-unteers he said, "I was impressed with all the hours the council members put in." As for the Emergency Management team, he said "...excellent! I couldn't ask for better!"

Both Mike Zushma and Dan Gallagher expressed concern over the number of people who disregarded the barricades put up to block flooded roads. Several people got stuck in the fast rising water and had to leave their cars. Still others had to be rescued by boat, once again taking vital personnel away from more serious situations. Summonses were issued to all who ignored the barricades.

Fire Chief Joe Abbruzzese reported that between Thursday, Sept. 16, and Tuesday, Sept. 21, 169 calls were received by the fire department, all of them storm related. He asked residents to conserve water and reminded those with contaminated Elizabethtown water to continue boiling their water before drinking or cooking.

As the town began the monumental task of cleaning up and drying out, the command center stayed opened and continued to take calls and send assistance to residents.

On Saturday morning Mike Zushma received an emergency call of a different kind. His father had fallen and broken his hip. Mayor Dan Gallagher immediately relieved Mike of his duties and placed Sgt. Mike Grennier in command. While three pumps worked to remove water from the mayor's basement, he was out delivering drinking water door to door to residents without water and to those with contaminated water.

Schools were closed on Monday and Tuesday due to little or no water pressure for sprinkler systems. Franklin, Roosevelt and Grant schools are served by Elizabethtown Water Company. Schools reopened on Wednesday and will be using bottled water until the water is deemed safe.

Residents, along with council members, have all praised the efforts of those who assisted during this emergency. They commended Mike Zushma who did a great job controlling the situation during the crisis. Darlene Pinto remarked that while Mike would bark out orders sending help to people, he always remained calm. There are many others to be commended, among them Mike Grennier, who took over after Mike Zushma had to attend to his father's emergency. He helped get the water stations set up at Cedar Oaks Nursing Home to supply that section of town with the much needed water.

Mayor Gallagher plans to call for rewriting of the current law to make evacuation mandatory in an emergency situation.

Police Vehicles Moved to McCriskin Funeral Home

Did you notice that McCriskin Funeral Home was filled with police cars on Friday morning? Late Thursday night water from Spring Lake Park creeped closer and closer to police headquarters, where the emergency command cen-ter was set up.

At around midnight, the parking lot behind police headquarters started to fill up with water. Police cars along with cars from the people at headquarters working at the command center were ordered to move their cars to McCriskin and sand bags were places around police headquarters to stop the water from raising an further.

Fortunately they did not have to evacuate as the water slowly stopped rising.

Shadyside Area Residents Without Any Water

While most of South Plainfield residents who use Elizabethtown Water were told to boil their water and conserve, residents in the Shadyside section were without any water at all after the storm.

Some residents were a little angry about boiling their wa-ter, but when they found they had no water at all, boiling didn't seem so bad. Apparently the pressure in Shadyside is at the end of the line for Elizabethtown so they have no pressure. Residents on the southside of town were also affected with no water or very little water pressure. Cedar Oaks Nursing Home, located on Durham Ave. called police Saturday morning complaining they had not had water for 24-hours and could not flush their toilets or take care of their patients. The fire department contacted Crisdel and Conti Consctruction Co. both from South Plainfield, and they arrived with trucks loaded with water in the Cedar Oaks parking lot. One truck hooked up garden hoses to the building in order to flush the toilets.

The National Guard brought a truck filled with drinking water and soon residents were standing in line for water. Police said they will remain at Ce-dar Oaks 24-hours a day until the water crisis is over.

The fire department was alerted about the lack of water and had their tanker trucks standing by in case of a fire. Shadyside is located off Durham Ave. on the south side of town. Most Shadyside residents spent the weekend ask-ing friends on the other side of town if they could use their showers and using their water.

Sunday evening cases of drinking water were distrib-uted to Shadyside residents through FEMA. Water was also available at Borough Hall for poor field conditions thanks to 'Hurricane Floyd' other teams were able to get down to work.

The under-nine-boys team, the Blast, traveled to South Brunswick and it was a trip worth its while as they kept the crowd on the edge of their seats and pulled a hard fought victory by the score of 3-2. Congratulations to the Blast.

On another note, the under-11-boys also opened their season. After an extremely slow start and obvious first game jitters, the team started to get their feel for the game and finished the first half with a score of 1-0. They put North Plainfield away in the second half with two more goals, sending their opponents home with a loss. The defense was well balanced, allowing goalkeeper Anthony Moretti to record his first shutout of the season. Well done United!

The South Plainfield Elks Handicapped Children's Committee wish to sincerely thank the South Plainfield Fire and Police Departments for donating the proceeds from their an-nual softball game to the Elks Handicapped Children's Fund.

Adult Volleyball Leagues Forming

The South Plainfield Recreation Department is accepting registrations for an adult co-ed

INTERACTIVE COMPUTER CORNER

By Briggs Longbothum

Well there Floyd, thanks for the visit! At least we had adequate advance warning this time around! I really feel for the folks over in Bound Brook and Manville and I'd sure like to see the next issue of the Flood Control Commission's newsletter, but even though it's easy to say; things could've been a lot worse. With no water at all in some areas and contaminated water for those who do have it, I don't even want to think about worse. I'm sure the pictures we've all seen and the stories we've heard will suffice for a long time to come. Say Hallelujah, say Amen! I do have to comment on the higher tech storm coverage we did have though. It was great! The weather channel had the highest ratings yet over all other programming. But, despite all the weather modeling, all the forecasting and the pretty on-air personalities trying to convince you that they know best how bad you're going to get hit, we did get socked good. However, I do have to wonder what would have been done differently had we known more. Since we aren't likely to be getting any guarantees with weather forecasts, I guess it's just going to remain as "one of those things!" I still remember my dad telling me of rafting through what is now Bound Brook and Greenbrook's finer neighborhoods saying that what flooded once will flood again! Words to the wise? Nope, not a chance!

Back on track here, I did note cellular phone service was sig-nificantly diminished after the storm and that many Northern Jersey phones were out. I see higher tech also means more fragile after all. I'm not advocating we re-learn Morse code, but don't lull yourself either into a comfort zone bordered with pure technology. Can you just imagine what this would be like if this storm had hit us on New Year's eve what with Y2K and everyone going crazy to boot? Let's just not neglect our need for common sense!

I'm wondering how many readers have tried some of the internet phone apps available nowadays? I just downloaded "Qtalk" for ICQ and am quite impressed with how well it works and how simple it is to use. Or how about ThirdVoice (www.thirdvoice.com) for posting notes on anyone's website. You can turn it on or off when-ever you want and I think it is a great application considering what it can do (future versions will allow html postings as well). Check it out and let me know what you think. In fact, if you've got some cool sites or apps for the web, pass them along for mention and sharing here. There's so much available these days, I can't begin to keep up with it all. Lend a hand for the benefit of us all. Reach me at bruggo@home.com! Best wishes till then or next time. -Briggs Longbothum, ed.

Don't spend the day just brooding, though. You will have the energy to tackle that onerous or tedious job. Complete it and cross it off your list

AQUARIUS 1/20-2/18 Uranus in cooperating aspect to Moon. This is an ex-cellent time for you to make changes that you know you need to make in your habits, patterns, the so call "rut". Or perhaps in a relationship that lost its spark. Try something new, change your approach, this is the time to try to pull it off with little resistance.

PISCES 2/19-3/20 Sun in cooperating aspect to Neptune. Creative work of aspect to Neptune. Creative work of beauty may emerge. This is a lot to say but you can pull it off! Your intuition is heightened, try to spend some time in the outdoors, in the beauty of nature. You will also have the compassionate ear to those in your family that need to talk talk

ARIES 3/21-4/19 Mercury sextiles Mars. Very likely you will have to convince someone of something one day this week. This will probably not be an ar-gument, but rather a situation in which you have to present your case with vigor and energy. And you can do this suc-cessfully without hurt feelings on the other side

TAURUS 4/20-5/20 Moon in Taurus. This happens around the 27th and at this time the desire is to protect what this time the desire is to protect what one already has. Maybe because of fi-nancial concerns this can be a poor time to change. And do not be upset if you don't get that loan. You shouldn't have applied for it in the first place. Catch up on your credit! CEMINI 5/201.6/20. Moon in Camini

GEMINI 5/21-6/20 Moon in Gemini. Communication is the key drive of this time. Your wit and intelligence will become sharper. People are changeable at this time. So you have the advantage to get them to see your side. This is also a wonderful time to write letters or to make phone calls about family matters CANCER 6/20-7/22 Pluto in cooperating aspect to Moon. Possible changes in your life are possible now. You may no longer be satisfied with discomfort within a relationship, or with a lack of emotional honesty. If you cannot get this, a break-up will cause no pain. If a new relationship starts at this time it can be a stable one and emotionally satisfying.

LEO 7/23-8/22 Sun trines Neptune. This transit arouses your inner idealism and gives you a strong desire to understand a deeper, more spiritual level of real-ity, both emotionally and intellectually. This is a time to try to understand where your life is going and to try to make small changes that will lead to ess later on VIRGO 8/23-9/22 Mercury trines Mars This is a good time for all kinds of hard mental work. You may have to speak your mind. This is not to say you want to start a fight but you do want to get your views out. This is also a good time to ask for a raise because you can com municate positively with confidence.

South Plainfield High School Band & Color Guard at Band Camp

August 31 to September 4, 1999 Camp Cayuga, Honesdale, PA

he South Plainfield Marching Band and Color Guard spent five days in late summer at Camp Cayuga, in Honesdale, PA., practicing the 1999 football and competition show. The students "worked very hard this year, on a difficult drill and show," according to band director Mark Tweed.

Consisting of five numbers, the show remembers Ira Gershwin: I've Got Rhythm, Cuban Overature, Fascinatin' Rhythm, Summertime, and Strike up the Band.

The band participated in the halftime show during the Rutgers/ Texas game in Piscataway on Saturday, Sept. 11. The band and color guard combined with Rutger's Marching Band and several other high school bands to play Land of a Thousand Dances, Sing, Sing Sing, and The Bells Must Ring during halftime.

The next band performance is on Saturday, Sept. 18, at JFK High School in Iselin, NJ.
