"Everyday Heroes" Essay Contest Awards Presented

Before conducting any official town business at last week's council meeting, a ceremony was held for the winners of the "Everyday Hero" Contest. The essay/poster contest was sponsored by Com-cast of The Plainfields along with The Learning Channel and the American Red Cross.

BOUTH PLAINFIELD

Students from grade schools submitted essays or posters de-picting their "Everyday Heroes." The contest was held for three consecutive months and a winner was chosen each month. The three winners were present, along with their proud families, teach ers and school principals. Balloons adorned the council room and refreshments were served to the special guests. Assemblyman Bob Smith attended the ceremonies, along with Comcast Area Vice President Buck Dopp and Regional Manager Debra Marshall. Katherine Chapman represented The Learning Channel and John Alston represented the American Red Cross.

The essay/poster winners were

A clean-up of PCB contaminated soil surrounding a residence on Hamilton Blvd. is underway this week. The property is directly across the street from the former location of Cornell Dubilier Electronics, Inc. which has been designated as a Region 2 Superfund Site. The soil around the entire house was removed and replaced with clean fill. More details in next week's issue.

Kimberly Russell and Donna Marie Garcia from Kennedy School and Gina Butrico from Franklin School. Each winner was recognized and presented with a framed certificate, along with their winning essay. The girls also read or described their winning essay/poster while their heroes stood beside them. All three winners chose family members as their heroes: a grandmother, a mother and a father. As they read their winning entrees and explained why they were their he-roes, there was hardly a dry eye in the audience.

Comcast and The Learning Channel then announced the grand prize winner who was chosen from the three monthly win-ners. The grand prize winner, Gina Butrico, won a $1,000 scholarship. Gina created a poster illustrating the many roles her grandmother has filled in her life. In addition, Franklin School will also receive a $1,000 certificate to be used towards an Educational Camp Scholarship. Each winner was also presented with a special proclamation from Mayor Dan Gallagher and the borough council.

John Alston from the American Red Cross presented a certifi-cate for the training of an additional 20 residents on how to use the new defibrillator.

Floyd Update

cil meeting, Mayor Dan Gallagher reported that over 17,340 bottles of water were given out during the water emergency. He said the water trucks at Cedar Oaks would remain in the parking lot until the water crises is over. Truck loads of water were delivered to Borough Hall all of last week. As fast as they were unloaded, residents were there to pick up the water. Late Friday evening Elizabethtown Water removed its boiling restrictions but asked customers to continue to limit their water use.
• Flood victims should be calling FEMA to find out what they are eligible to receive in the form of aid and grants. Residents may contact FEMA by calling 1-800-462-9029.

• The compactor will be open for the next three Saturdays for residents to dispose of their damaged property.

• School children have returned to school and were drinking from bottled water all week long. Most children found this experience to be an adventure. The younger children had to learn how to wash without water and use the wet towelettes. But everyone copped very well.

Thanks for a Great Community Effort

A two-year effort to secure an equipment vehicle for the High School Marching Band came to fruition on Thursday evening, Sept. 9, when the South Plainfield High School Tiger Marching Band unveiled its new equip-ment vehicle the "Tigermobile" at the first home football game. In the Borough of South

Plainfield, where we claim that our youth are our greatest asset, it is truly rewarding to see a community rally around a positive youth-oriented activity. Such is the case of those community officials and merchants that have stepped up to assist the High School Marching Band in this effort. The borough formerly owned "The Tigermobile." It was used as the senior citizen transportation vehicle. This bus has been renovated and decorated thanks to the efforts of numerous community-oriented in-

The members of the South Plainfield High School Boosters of the Musical Arts wish to take this opportunity to express their sincere thanks to those who have given of their time, effort and resources to make this a reality. First and foremost the Borough Council and Board of Education for their foresightedness; Mr. Michael English and Recreation for the follow-through, as well as Superintendent of Schools Mr. Guy Ferri, School Business Administrator Ellen Johnson and Facility Director Mr. Bill Dowdell for their support and assistance.

The process of getting the vehicle in sound, safe operating order fell to the expertise of Mr. Joe Nicastro, owner/operator of Nicastro Auto Service, Hamilton Blvd. Mr. Nicastro stepped up to the challenge getting the vehicle in safe running order as well as agreeing to continue the service and maintenance of the vehicle. The lettering, decorating and naming of the vehicle was assumed by Mr. Mike Allocco, owner/operator of A.K.A. Inc. As is always the case with the A.K.A. crew, they worked diligently to get the vehicle ready for the unveiling. Mike, George, Lynn and Joyce once again exhibited their strong support of our efforts on behalf of the SPHS students.

It is this type of collaborative community involvement which makes our town such a great place to live. A community that cares about its young people and is willing to go the extra mile to show their support.

THANKS AGAIN,
THE SPHS MUSIC BOOSTERS

To the Editor:

In response to Mr. Frank A. Mikorski's letter recently published in the Sept. 17, 1999, issue of the Observer, I am pleased to say "bravo" to the Board of Education for finally not allowing the teachers' association to coerce, bully, or intimidate them during this negotiation.

When I read Ms. Mruz's letter in the Sept. 10, 1999, issue, my first impulse was to throw her a crying towel because that is what the association in this town does so well, cry. How much more money do these people want to earn, and are they really "earning" it? According to New Jersey Monthly, September, 1998, South Plainfield High School didn't even make the top 75 high schools in the state. It didn't even get honorable mention. Is something missing here?

Hopefully, the board of education will continue its effort to negotiate fairly and honestly and not allow the association to threaten or bully it for unreasonable demands.

By the way, and just some food for thought, is it mandatory that the association's contract be renewed, or can a board of education opt not to renew? VERY TRULY YOURS, PATRICIA MCDONOUGH

Dear Editor,

I ran into a friend of mine from another town who comes to our Labor Day parade every year. He pointed out how much he enjoys seeing improvements to South Plainfield every time he comes to town, from new roads to cleaning up the parks, to the downtown area. After I spoke with him, I started thinking how right he was. There is no area of town that hasn't been improved over the last six years. It's hard to believe that its all been done on "pay as you go" without bor-rowing money and without in-creasing taxes. This type of accomplishment does not happen by mistake. It takes hard work. Ed Kubala and Jim Vokral have taken the lead on almost everything that has been accomplished over the last six years.

Don't sit home on Election

Day. Ed and Jim need your vote. Get out and vote for Ed Kubala and Jim Vokral for South Plainfield Council.

MRS. ANN CAMPANELLI

To the Editor,

I was watching the "New Jersey News" the other day and the commentator was pointing out that this is an "off, off-year elec-tion." He said they expect the lowest turnout ever and he was also saying that sometimes low turnouts lead to strange results. Let's all work hard to be certain that doesn't happen in South Plainfield. From Democracy Day to pay as you go government, South Plainfield is one of the most innovative towns in New Jersey. Two of the people most responsible for the change in the way South Plainfield government works are Ed Kubala and Jim Vokral. We have to be certain that we get out and vote so that they continue to be able to work hard for our residents. Write down the date right now—Tuesday, November 2—Election day—Vote for Ed Kubala and Jim Vokral.

TIMOTHY I. MORGAN

From the Democratic Candidates

Ed Kubala and Jim Vokral issued the following statement this

"As we begin the 1999 council campaign as representatives of the Democratic party we pledge to conduct a positive, issue, oriented campaign. We ask the Republican candidates to make the same commitment. South Plainfield is a terrific place to live. It's nice to go to Drug Fair or the post office and say hello to people regardless of party affiliation.

Let's talk about taxes, park improvements, road projects and other issues which will improve the quality of life in South Plain-field. Then regardless of who is successful on election day everybody comes out a winner.

Over the next six weeks we will be discussing our vision for South Plainfield as we approach the year 2000 and beyond.

We ask all residents to call us with questions or visit us on our website "www.spdems.org.

PLEASE NOTE: The Observer invites all candidates to submit their opinions on the issues. We encourage all candidates to take advantage of this opportunity to inform voters.

Borough Notes

Council Notes

■ Speed strips will be ordered for the area in the front of the Post Office. The strips should be in place by Thanksgiving.

■ The Durham and New Durham Ave. reconstruction is almost completed. The intersection has been restructured and a light has been installed. The intersection has caused a number of traffic problems and accidents. Because it covers South Plainfield, Edison and Piscataway, it has taken extra time to plan and finish the project.

Anthony Cataldo has purchased a 1974 John Deere Bulldozer from the Public Works Department for $1,000.

■ The next Borough Council meeting will be held on Oct 14.

Flood Victims Seek Help From Borough Council

Residents living in the New Market Rd. area attended last week's council meeting to ask the council for their help. Many of the residents have suffered with flooding problems for years and they came to the meeting to express their frustration.

The residents had several suggestions including moving their homes to Pitt Street Park and relocating the park to the flood prone areas. Some asked the council to buy them out. Residents complained that with the flooding problems none of their houses can be sold and they cannot afford to keep borrowing money after

Two years ago this issue was placed on the Democracy Day Ballot. Residents were asked to vote on the proposal of buying the homes in the flood zone and they voted it down.

There were also several complaints that diesel fuel was being dumped into the sewers on New Market Ave. by the bus company. The flooded basements, as well as the streets, smelled like diesel fuel after the waters receded.

The mayor said he is sympathetic with the flood victims. He said he will look for grant money to buy the owners homes and will also investigate if any dumping is being done by the bus company.

Jason will be presenting "6 Steps to Songwriting Success," which is also the title of his new book published by Billboard. Jason will be selling and signing his book at the seminar. The seminar will provide information and instruction to aspiring and professional songwriters on topics such as developing successful song structures, writing effective lyrics, composing memorable melodies and producing successful demos. Call the seminar hotline at (908) 638-0239 for registration forms, directions and other information. Registration deadline is Oct. 23.

Singer/songwriter/guitarist Barbara Harley of North Plain-vocalist Al Lind of Whitehouse Station are proud to be endorsing hit songwriter Jason Blume on the songwriting seminar. Songwriting groups and song-writers throughout NY and NJ have been invited to attend this Harley and Lind, along with producer/musician Gar Francis perform locally in a trio called Flat, Broke & Busted.

In April of this year, Harley and Lind were selected from several hundred applicants to perform their original material at the NJ Folk Festival. Harley has also performed solo at the PNC Bank Arts Center—opening for Clint Black and the Mavericks. Harley and Lind are scheduled to perform at Rutgers University Student Center on Friday, Oct. 1, for the Silent Witness Program.

Ms. Harley teaches vocal/general music at Kennedy Elementary School. "My students are my best critics when it comes to our original music. They are so honest. If they like our songs, I know we're on the right track."

Alternative View

By Dr. Anthony J. DeCosta, D.C.

Dear Dr. DeCosta:

I have problems falling asleep at night. Without resorting to sleeping pills, what can be done in alternative medicine to help with this problem? - H. C.

Sleep is a restorative process that serves to replenish both physiologically and psychologically. As an essential part of the daily human cycle, sleep is a determining factor in the state of a person's health.

Sleep disorders are a particularly troublesome health concern. Not only can they be the result of other, often undetected ailments, but they also generate their own health complications.

Insomnia, which is characterized by an inability either to fall asleep or to remain asleep during the course of the night, can be traced to a number of physical, mental, behavioral and situational factors.

Insomnia has been classified in terms of the time of night that it effects. According to John Zimmerman, Ph.D., Laboratory Director of the Washoe Sleep Disorders Center in Reno, Nevada, there are three main types of insomnia: sleep-onset insomnia, sleep-maintenance insomnia, and early-morning-awakening insomnia.

People who take hours to fall asleep but sleep relatively well throughout the remainder of the night have sleep-onset insomnia. Those who wake up several times in the middle of the night and have trouble falling back to sleep suffer from sleep-maintenance insomnia. Individuals who awaken too early have what is called early-morning-awakening insomnia.

Psychophysiological insomnia, notes Dr. Zimmerman, is an official diagnostic category the symptoms of which often include sleeponset insomnia. In psychophysiological insomnia, a person's normal sleep rituals, behavior or sleeping environment trigger insomnia. In this case, the more the sufferer worries about falling asleep, the worse it becomes.

Dr. Zimmerman offers the following suggestions for a better night's

1. Don't look at the clock during the sleep period. Awareness of how long you have been trying to fall asleep can be a major contributing cause of insomnia because it can only contribute to anxiety.

2. Do not spend too much time in bed trying to fall asleep. If you cannot fall asleep in a comfortable period of time, get out of bed and out of the bedroom. Sit or lie down in another area of the house and engage in some quiet, relaxing activity such as reading, watching television or listening to music. When you start to feel sleepy, then, and only then, go back to bed.

3. Try sleep restriction therapy. Avoid spending a great deal of time in bed when you are not actually sleeping. By restricting your time in bed to be about equal to your typical total sleep time, you will increase your sleep efficiency.

4. Exercise. Studies have shown that exercise in the late afternoon or early evening increases the amount of deep sleep a person gets at night.

5. Warm baths, Meditation, and Breathing Exercises. Warm baths before retiring help increase circulation to the skin and relax muscles. Meditation before bed may help to ease the worry about falling asleep. Breathing techniques, such as yogic breathing, can calm the body and promote sleep.

Diet is especially important when dealing with sleep disorders. Avoid alcohol consumption and caffeine in all forms (tea, coffee, cola, chocolate). Take a protein-rich snack at bedtime. According to John Hibbs, N.D., of the Natural Health Clinic of Bastyr College in Seattle, Washington, L-tryptophan, found in foods such as milk and turkey, is considered the best amino acid for sleeping problems. Melatonin, which is a pineal gland extract and a powerful antioxidant, has been shown to be helpful in treating insomnia.

With insomnia, there are several other alternative medicine approaches which may prove useful including Chiropractic, herbs, homeopathy, Traditional Chinese Medicine, Ayurvedic medicine, and behavioral treatments.

By Kenneth Morgan

As of today, we're in October. And, as of last week, we're in autumn. And, as of now, here's news from the South Plainfield Library:

There will be a meeting for Friends of the Library at 7:30 on Tuesday night. Everyone is welcome to attend.

We've got our usual Storytime schedule set for next week. The programs will be held on Titesday at 10:30 a.m, Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. and Thursday at 1:15 p.m. Each program is for children age three and over. If you'd like more information, check with Linda Hansen, the children's librarian.

We're still interested in your opinions about our Reference department. You can pick up a Reference survey form at the main desk. While you're at it, feel free to fill out our two other survey forms for, respectively, the children's department and the library in general brary in general.

We're between groups on the Video circuit today. We hope to have the new group ready to circulate by tomorrow. Meanwhile, the new batch of Large Print circuit books is now ready to be borrowed. They can go out for two weeks.

During the recent "Back to School" nights, a number of people signed up for library cards at the library's display table. Now, we have a request: please stop in, pick those cards up and, most important, use them. It's a sad thing when library cards are orphanged.

We have two more reminders for you. First, when you read the magazines in our periodical area, we'd prefer that you not try to replace them on the rack your-self. They can get mixed up very easily. Just leave them on the table and a staff member will take care of them. Second, don't fiddle around with our Internet terminals. Some less-than-considerate people have been re-setting and re-programming the terminals, driving Gladys, our system administrator, to distraction. This is a real pain; if we catch someone doing this, they'll be barred from our terminals. If you want to get cute, do it on your own computer, not ours.

computer, not ours.
Good grief! Tomorrow is the birthday of both Charlie Brown and Snoopy. Oct. 2, 1950 marked the first appearance of the famous and beloved "Peanuts" characters of Charles Schulz. Chuck and Snoopy are both well represented in our collection. Our Juvenile video section features many of their TV specials (including their first, and best, show, "A Charlie Brown Christmas"), as well as two tapes featuring vignettes from the Saturday morning "Charlie Brown and Snoopy Show." You can also find a number of "Peanuts" books, most of them in both the fiction and non-fiction sections of the Children's room. If you need help finding them, ask one of the Reference Staff or Miss Linda. We're sure you'll enjoy them. (Funny thing, though. 1950? Charlie Brown doesn't look 49 years old, and Snoopy certainly doesn't look over 300. In dog years, that is.)

That's about all for this week. See you next Friday.

18th Annual Band Festival Set for Oct. 24

The 18th Annual South Plainfield High School Marching Band Festival will be held on Sunday, Oct. 24 at 1 p.m. (Rain date Oct. 31) at the Frank Jost Memorial Field located on Maple Ave.

This festival is sponsored by the South Plainfield High School Boosters of the Musical Arts and is the largest fundraiser of the year. About 30-40 booster members volunteer their time and energy to make this event a success, along with the outstanding performances of all the participating high school marching bands.

The event has continually attracted outstanding bands throughout New Jersey and New York because of the way the festival is produced. Currently ten bands have responded that they will attend the festival, including our own South Plainfield High School Marching Tiger Band.

This promises to be an outstanding day. Refreshments and homemade school spirit craft items will be available for sale. There is also a small admission fee. All proceeds from the festival will benefit the S.P.H.S. Music Boosters scholarship fund.

Weekly Horoscope 10/01-10/7

LIBRA 9/23-10/22 Moon sextiles Venus. Love relationships are usually aided by this transit, and this is a good time to go out with someone, because there will be good rapport between you. Or have a party at home, that's another way to meet someone when your friends bring friends. SCORPIO 10/23-11/21 Sun sextiles

Pluto. Under this transit you will be able to make changes in your immediate environment and reform circumstances that you have been unhappily contending with for some time. You may have to contend with groups of neonle and this can be advantageous. SAGITTARIUS 11/22-12/21 Moon sextiles Jupiter. A good time for good feelings. This could be an excellent time to plan or schedule a social event. If you haven't seen out that old friend I told you about last week, you still have the opportunity to do it this

CAPRICORN 12/22-1/19 Saturn/ Moon Combination. This can be a difficult time for you. If there is turmoil in a relationship the possible cause for this is that you are spending too much time on the job. You need to create some source of balance, and not neglect the person you love. Visit par-

AOUARIUS 1/20-2/18 Sun trines Uranus. Get out and start some new projects, you have the ability to learn something new easily. Your heightened perception of what is going on around you will help you make changes with a complete understanding. Just do not sit around and relax.

PISCES 2/19-3/20 Neptune/Moon combination. This is a time not to idealize someone out of proportion. If this happens later on you are likely to be disappointed. So be especially careful in love affairs, which are often subject to overidealizing anyway. Be careful what you eat at this time. Digestive problems can occur.

ARIES 3/20-4/19 Moon trines Mars.

Physically, your energy level is high, so you may want to do something that involves physical labor or exercise. If you need to make any decisions you will not have the tendency to rash actions. You also have the ability to speak directly without being offensive.

TAURUS 4/20-5/20 Moon conjuncts Mercury. If you are having trouble with someone in your life this is a good time to talk about your feelings. Also this is the time to gather information if you have a decision to make. To make that decision without the info can cost

GEMINI 5/21-6/20 Mercury in challenging aspect to Jupiter. Your ability to think quickly is an asset, and this week good ideas are more likely. You can put your communication skills to work for yourself in business matters and public speaking events. Be flex-ible and be sure to listen to what others have to say

CANCER 6/21-7/22 Moon conjuncts Venus. Watch your spending at this time. It's very easy with this transit to spend more money than you originally intended. And if you need to stay within a budget, you will be well advised to postpone shopping until later. This is overindulgence transit.

LEO 7/23-8/22 Sun cooperating aspect to Moon. This week should find you feeling fairly peaceful and bal-anced. Your outer needs (professional, home life) flows harmoniously with your inner emotional needs. This is a good time to improve relationships within your circle. Friendships started now should work out.

VIRGO 8/23-9/22 Venus/Moon combination. Around Sunday you are likely to be feeling real "happy," warm and mellow toward everyone you meet. Your feelings of love and affection are strong, so express them. And you will benefit from it. This is a good day to have friends over.

A drive toward self-indulgence, is making the wrong turn in life.

The South Plainfield High School Football Team posted their first victory of the season by crushing visiting Monroe 35-

Because of some internal team suspensions, junior varsity tail-back Rafael Diaz got the start in the Tiger backfield and made the most of it. Diaz rushed for just over 100 yards and scored three times running behind an offensive line which also had a few first time starters. That offensive line continuously opened up holes, not only for Diaz, but also for first year transfer Chad Cook, who took the second play of the game from scrimmage 65 yards, for the nights first score.

The Falcons from Monroe scored the first of their two touchdowns later in the quarter on a 23-yard bootleg by quarterback David Jensen. The point after failed and the Tigers lead was cut to one. Monroe once again marched down field and had a first and ten from the Tiger 23 yard line. This is where the Tiger defense stepped up and shut down the Falcons, not allowing them to penetrate past the ten yard line thanks to key stops by senior, David Friedland and sophomores, Bobby Merkler and Ulysses Russell.

With less than a minute left in the half, the Tigers passed mid-field and were driving for another score, when Diaz took his

It wasn't until the last two minutes of the game when Kenny Breslau again took a shot and found the back of the net for a 3-2 win.

John Joseph Dambrauskas, 58

John Joseph Dambrauskas, formerly of South Plainfield, died from injuries sustained in a mo-tor vehicle accident while en route to work in Huntersville, North Carolina on Monday, Sept. 20.

Mr. Dambrauskas was born in Elizabeth. He had resided there as a child until he entered college. He had resided in Edison and in South Plainfield for 20 years before settling in Huntersville in February of 1999.

He was a 1959 graduate of St. Mary's High School in Elizabeth and continued his education at St. Francis College in Loretto, Pa., where he earned his degree in 1963. He later earned his MBA from Fairleigh Dickinson University in New Jersey.

Mr. Dambrauskas was employed by Singer, Houghbigant and lastly, Private Formulations Inc. of Piscataway before he relocated to Huntsville where he was employed as plant manager for Vintage Pharmaceuticals in Charlotte, NC since October of 1998.

He is predeceased by his parents, John, who died in May of 1998 and his mother, Marie (Kushner), who died in August, also in 1998.

Surviving are his wife, Dorothy Ann (Mack) Dambrauskas; a daughter, Christine Dambrauskas and his soon to be son-in-law, Kevin Doherty, both of Clifton; a son, John W. Dambrauskas of

IMMORTAL SOULS

There are some things that must be taken as matters of faith. During these modern times of scientific inquiry, it may be difficult for some to accept the idea of eternal life without some material proof. Yet, for others, there is little need of proof. The immortal-ity of the soul is accepted on the basis of faith. Proof comes from within, with a firm belief about the nature of our spiritual selves. As Jean Jacques Rousseau declared, "Not all the subtleties of metaphysics can make me doubt a moment of the immortality of the soul, and of a beneficent providence. I feel it, I believe it, I desire it, I hope it, and will defend it to my last breath.'

Preparedness, rather than worry a much more productive and affidence inspiring past time. Rather than worry about various eventualities, which tends to eventualities, which tends to engender a sense of powerlessness and fear, why not take the bull by the horns and engage in research and planning. This exhibit is in cooperation with Women Aware, Inc., the South Plainfield Police Depart-ment and the South Plainfield Domestic Violence Crisis Intervention Team.

School and Council Cooperation Applauded

Members of the school board and borough council commented positively on their mutual cooperation during the Hurricane Floyd flood emergency. The school board stayed in constant contact with Emergency Management Coordinator Mike Zushma on road closings and water restrictions and school board members alerted Zushma on hap-penings in school buildings. The school board was kept apprised of each changing emergency and, with the help of the emergency management, was able to decide when schools would be safe to reopen. Three area schools, Roosevelt, Frank-lin and Grant use Elizabethtown Water and had little or no water pressure. As long as water pressure was low, schools could not have safely opened. As the water problems were solved, they worked together to make sure it was safe for the children to go back to school.

Highland Avenue Woods Introduces Nature Guide

By Patricia Abbott

The Highland Avenue Woods Education Reserve on Highland Ave. may be South Plainfield's best secret, but the South Plainfield Environmental Commission and Friends of the Woods are working hard to change that. On Tuesday, Sept. 21, their newly published Nature Guide was introduced to the public along with a slide presentation and photo exhibit. The event took place at the

The Trail Guide was made possible by a grant awarded under the "Watchable Wildlife" project, which is managed by the NJ Division of Fish, Game and Wildlife's Endangered and

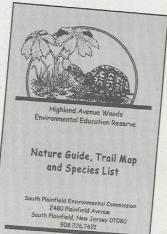

HIGHLAND AVE

WOODS RESERVE

Nongame Species program.
Friends of the Woods, a group formed two years ago to help the Environmental Commission maintain and manage the reserve did much of the work in creating the trail guide. They also developed the "Walks N Talks" program.

Among those in attendance at the event were

President James Vokral, liaison to the Environmental Commission; Ms. Dorothy Miele, Chairman of Friends the of woods; Dr. Emile De-Vito, New Jersey Conservation Foundation; Dr.

Lillian DeSimon, Assistant Superintendent of Schools and Larry Randolph, Chairman of the South Plainfield Environmental Commis-

Their goal is to "promote the Reserve as an impressive tool for educational opportunities for schools and organizations and to display the wonderful diversity available to nature lovers". Photo exhibits of the reserve are currently on display in several schools.

The large reserve is tucked in-between homes and a variety of businesses, bordered by South Clinton Ave., New Market Ave. and Elsie Ave. The entrance to the reserve is located on Sylvania Place, off of South Clinton Ave. The South Plainfield Environmental Commission formally established the 35 acres of woodlands in 1992. It is believed that parts of the reserve were farmed or logged until World War I and other areas into the 1950s. The Wisconsin Glaciers which occurred 20,000 years ago may have caused a series of ponds that form in the spring. There is evidence of prehistoric Native American habi-tants. A Revolutionary War encampment site is also in the area. The reserve is made up of streams, uplands and wetlands. More than 80 species of birds, mammals, reptiles and amphibians make their home there. The woods are also home to a large number of native wildflowers.

The diversity of the habitat within the reserve makes it an ideal tool for environmental education. Students will soon take field trips to the reserve as part of their studies.

For information about the Highland Ave. Woods Education Reserve, call (908) 226-7621.
