Pedestrian Accidents Mar Holiday Weekend

Mayor Dan Gallagher honors Pastor Charles Mingle with a proclamation for his dedication to the emergency services in the borough.

Mingle Honored For Dedication

By Jane Dornick

Pastor Charles R. Mingle graciously received a proclamation honoring him for his many years of dedicated service to the police, fire and rescue squad from the South Plainfield Borough Council at the Dec. 19 council meeting.

The proclamation states how Pastor Mingle "has been instrumental in enabling the police officers, volunteer firefighters and EMT's to perform the many duties that are required by offering support, encouragement and consolation." He possesses three vital components that enable him to be one of the best in his field; excellence in administering his ministry, encouraging excellence in others and giving recognition to others for their excellence. Pastor Mingle was also the recipient of the prestigious John A. Price Award for Excellence in Chaplaincy at the International Conference of Police Chaplains annual training seminar held in San Antonio, Texas in July 2005.

Mayor Dan Gallagher, along with the rest of the council members, congratulated Pastor Mingle and thanked him for his many years of service to the borough.

Two motor vehicle accidents involving pedestrians occurred over the holiday weekend, leaving one man dead and another critically injured.

Last Friday evening, 53-year-old Vasantpur Swami of Piscataway was walking on the northbound side of Stelton Rd. near White Castle when he was struck by a 1990 Oldsmobile Cutlass driven by Consandra Bugg, 31, of Plainfield. South Plainfield police believe that he was walking to his place of employment at White Castle when the incident occurred. Swami was treated by the rescue squad and Mercy 6 and was taken to Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital where he died from injuries a short time later. No charges were filed against the driver.

On Saturday afternoon, 50-year-old Robert Stark of Dunellen had parked his car in the Cedarcroft Chapel driveway on Kenyon Ave. and was walking to a relative's home nearby when he was struck by a vehicle and seriously injured.

The 2004 GMC Envoy, driven by Deborah Winters, 44, of South Plainfield, had turned from Rahway Ave. south onto Kenyon Ave. when the accident occurred. Stark was treated by the rescue squad and Mercy 6 and transported to Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital where he is listed in critical condition with serious head and leg injuries. Police believe that Stark was under the influence of alcohol at the time he was struck. No charges have been filed against the driver.

Both accidents are under investigation by the Police Traffic Safety Unit. Anyone with any information regarding either accident should contact Lt. Kevin Murtagh at (908) 226-7679.

He was then transferred to the Hudson County Prosecutor's Office as a detective. Fusaro has been trained in many areas of police work, including fraud investigation, interview and interrogation, crime scene processing, criminal investigation, bomb incidents and threats, basic telecommunicator, sexual assault response and identity theft.

Plainfield Man Arrested for Assault, Resisting Arrest

On Tuesday, Dec. 19, Dameen Scruggs of 427 W. 5th St. in Plainfield was arrested for aggravated assault, resisting arrest, and possession of a weapon for an unlawful purpose. The arrest was the result of an investigation of a burglary to a residence which was being conducted by Detective Sgt. Dan Noonan.

Noonan observed suspicious activity as he was canvassing the area and attempted to confront Scruggs as he was sitting in the driver's seat of a parked vehicle near the initial crime of the burglarized residence. Noonan approached the vehicle, at which time Scruggs ignored commands to stop. Scruggs then struck Noonan with his vehicle and left the scene. Noonan did not sustain any injuries.

The suspect vehicle was located in the city of Plainfield minutes later. Scruggs was listed as a wanted person for approximately one month before he was arrested on three outstanding warrants. Scruggs was released after posting a $50,000 bond.

Knights Step Up to Make Repairs at Sacred Heart

Over the past month fellow members of the South Plainfield Knights of Columbus Council #6203 have been at Sacred Heart Church getting the pews and kneelers ready for Christmas masses. Deputy Grand Knight Billy Butrico asked Father John Paul Alvarado if there was anything the church needed repaired and Father John Paul let the Knights know the kneelers were in dire need of refurbishing and were hoping they could be fixed for the Christmas season.

After inspecting the kneelers, it was determined that more than the kneelers needed work as the pews, brackets and shims have been neglected for years.

Two hundred twenty-three missing bumpers, 40 anchor brackets, 32 kneeler covers, 12 springs and 106 missing wooden seat shims were all fixed or replaced in this project.

The South Plainfield Knights of Columbus, led by Kevin Keane, and the following members have been working tirelessly for over 100 hours over the past month: Billy Butrico, Gerry Butrico, Mike Butrico, Vinny Butrico, Charlie Butrico Jr, William Butrico Jr, Ed Koznowicz Sr, William Kelly, Lenny Kleczkowski, Tom Elko, Grand Knight Tony Moskal, Greg Gaydos, Fred Briscoe, Larry Makowski and Bob Tortorelli.

After hearing what the Knights were going to do, other members of the community and church also volunteered their help for the project.

The Knights would like to thank Joey Lammi and William Butrico, Sr. for all of their help on this project.

In Support of Gay Rights

By Tim Morgan Jr.

New Jersey lawmakers deserve to be commended for being among the leading states to make strides in advancing rights for homosexuals. Although we have not reached the level Massachusetts has in allowing gays to marry, the approval of gay civil unions is a step in the right direction.

Despite this measure though, laudation should be limited. It is essentially following the "separate but equal" maxim that has long been antiquated. There is still an undeniable prejudice against gays in the United States and in many other areas of the world. However, South Africa, a region that is far behind most of the world in terms of development and economy, recently granted gay couples the same rights as heterosexual couples because it was finally recognized how exclusionary the laws were.

While New Jersey's laws will be widened to grant gay partners certain rights, they are still far from being on par with married couples. According to the Associated Press, Federal Income Tax returns will still not be able to be filed jointly, health insurance benefits conferred from one partner to another will be subject to taxes, and surviving partners will not be able to collect deceased partners' Social Security benefits or pensions. In addition, while alimony is not taxed under federal law, support paid from one partner to another after the dissolution of a civil union would be subject to federal gift taxes.

The U.S. is supposed to stand for equal rights for all, but it is evident that this concept is still waiting to be fully carried out. Including New Jersey's recent decision, which is not recognized outside of the state, only five of the 50 states allow for gay civil unions and only one allows for true equality by granting marriage rights to all who wish to take their relationships to their logical zenith.

The U.S. is also supposed to have a separation of church and state. This strategy is designed to ensure freedom of religion and prevent politicians' own religious views from interfering with their political decisions. Opposition to gay rights is almost entirely grounded in religion though. New Jersey legislators who opposed the civil union bill provided Biblical "evidence" as proof in their arguments, not even considering that God's primary message is one of love and fair and unbiased treatment.

If the opposition is not grounded in skewed religious beliefs, it is driven by homophobia. As rational, accepting, and tolerant human beings, it is not our place to judge how other people live their lives, so long as they do so in a way that does not hurt anyone. In an age when we are realizing just how important freedom is, it is even more important that we recognize this and not ostracize people who would otherwise be viewed as equals.

There is no reason to believe that gay couples can not or should not function in the same ways as conventional married couples. It is extremely unlikely they would exceed the current divorce rate of nearly 50 percent, especially since many of them have been waiting for years to get married. And gay adoption is fairly common, so gay couples have formed family units for quite some time now.

For centuries, people have fought pointless and destructive wars based on an all-too-easy impulse to fear and even hate that which is perceived to be foreign and strange. Until the Peace of Westphalia in the seventeenth century, conflicts between Protestants and Catholics cost millions of lives. Until the late nineteenth century, slavery was common; and until only 40 years ago, civil rights for blacks were aggressively denied. And the revilement the Jews faced culminated in a genocide that exterminated a total of 11 million people, six million of them Jews; an extension of this struggle in the Middle East can be read about daily.

Despite the mostly latent continuation of these disputes today, it is commonly accepted that these violent expressions of backward thinking were wrong. Gay rights are an extension of these conflicts. People were once convinced beyond a doubt that their fears and preconceptions were well-founded, using mostly religious zealotry to justify their claims. Now they just look foolish, just as those who persecute gays soon will. Gay rights will come eventually; it is just a question of how many have to suffer in the process.

Homosexuality is being treated like a disease, and people are trying to find a cure for an ailment that doesn't exist. We should not ask people to repress their nature, especially by way of such ridiculous, narrow-minded, and self-righteous programs such as "sexual reorientation therapy," among others with the same goal. Being gay is not a choice; it is an inextricable and inveterate trait.

Being heterosexual or homosexual is essentially the same thing for all of us—it is who we are. To think otherwise is to lack empathy and a desire to understand, and when we resort to such methodology, we take a major backslide into the territory of discrimination that the human race has long fought to disconnect with. That is something we cannot afford to do, or we will fall prey to archaic ways of thinking that have only led to struggle and despair.

Borough Withdraws Fair Share and Housing Element Plan from COAH

Every municipality in the State of New Jersey has the constitutional obligation imposed by the New Jersey Supreme Court to develop a plan to keep low and moderate income housing units as part of the municipal land use law. A part of the borough's master plan includes requirements that there be a fair share plan establishing a predetermined number of affordable units for low and moderate households.

The New Jersey State Legislature enacted the Fair Housing Act and created the Council On Affordable Housing (COAH), an administrative and regulatory organization. COAH is comprised of 11 members appointed by the Governor with the consent of the Senate. COAH is empowered to estimate low and moderate income housing needs, set guidelines for municipalities to determine their own fair share numbers, and then review and approve the municipalities' plans.

Municipalities can choose to enter the COAH process and have COAH approve their plan. The borough of South Plainfield recently submitted their Fair Share Plan and Housing Element to COAH. However, the Borough Council, at its Dec. 19 meeting, withdrew this plan from COAH jurisdiction.

Instead, the council voted to bring the plan before the Superior Court.

"Once we found out that COAH wouldn't accept our plan, we made the decision to go to the Superior Court," said Mayor Daniel Gallagher.

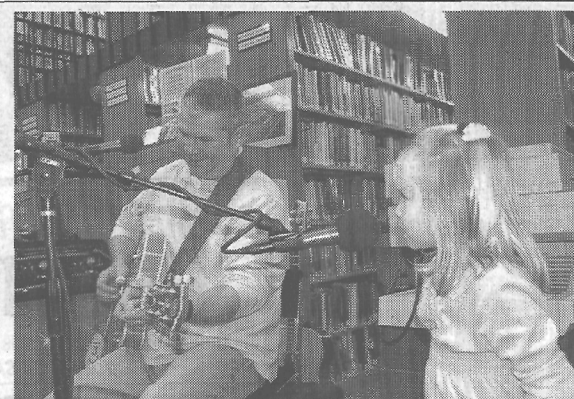

Borough planner Art Bernard noted, "The borough's initial obligation wasn't recognized by the COAH, but it was by the court. There are two ways for the town to get approval of its plan. One is to go before COAH; the other is through the court system. The court approved the plan of South Plainfield a few years ago. When we got the approval from the court, we asked the court to leave the door open if COAH had problems with our plan. This time [for the third round obligation] we couldn't get as many credits for the aged and rental units [from COAH], so we are going back to the Superior Court to review our plans. The matter will be resolved within a year."

On Monday, Jan. 8, at 6:30 p.m. at Borough Hall, the Affordable Housing Agency of the Borough of South Plainfield will discuss the Affordable Housing Program.

Brush Stop owner Denise Quarantiello and her daughter, Samantha, had their hair cut to donate to Locks of Love.

The Brush Stop Gives Locks of Love

By Jane Dornick

Denise Quarantiello, owner of The Brush Stop on South Plainfield Ave., and her nine year-old daughter, Samantha, decided to participate in the season of giving by cutting their hair and donating it to the Locks of Love organization.

Locks of Love is a public non-profit organization that provides hairpieces to financially disadvantaged children under age 18 suffering from long-term medical hair loss from any diagnosis. They meet a unique need for children by using donated hair to create the highest quality hair prosthetics. Most of the children helped by Locks of Love have lost their hair due to a medical condition called alopecia, which has no known cause or cure. The prostheses they provide help to restore their self-esteem and their confidence, enabling them to face the world and their peers.

Locks of Love accepts a 10-inch minimum hair length that is cut and bundled in a ponytail or braid.

Locks of Love needs hair from men and women, young and old, all colors and races. Hair may be colored or permed, but not bleached or chemically damaged.

For more information on sending in a donation, visit their website at lockslovelove.org or call them at (888) 896-1588.

From the South Plainfield Library

Bookmarks

by Kenneth Morgan

Well, you've probably cleaned up all the torn wrapping paper from Monday, and you're getting set to clean up all the confetti from Sunday night. And you've probably been cleaning up pine needles since the middle of last week. How about taking a break from all that holiday cleanliness and reading the latest from South Plainfield Library?

The library will be closed on Sunday in observance of New Year's Eve, and on Monday in observance of New Year's Day.

While next week begins a whole new year, we'll be sticking with the usual schedule of children's programs. "Storytime," for children age three and over, is held on Tuesday morning at 10:30, Wednesday evening at 6:30, and Thursday afternoon at 1:15. "Time for 2's & 3's," for children age two and three, is held on Wednesday and Thursday mornings at 10:30, and Thursday evening at 6:30. And "Books 'N' Babies," for children up to age three, is held on Friday morning at 10:30. For more information, please give us a call and ask for Linda or Mija.

We're between groups on the DVD Circuit today; the next batch of titles will be available next week. Meanwhile, if you can't wait for some new items, we've just added some more DVD's to our permanent collection. Adult titles include full-season sets of "The Simpsons" (two seasons, in fact), "24," "Desperate Housewives," "Gilmore Girls" and both "C.S.I." and "C.S.I.: Miami," "The DaVinci Code," and "Pirates of the Caribbean: Dead Man's Chest." Over in the juvenile section, we have "The Ant Bully," "Cars," the second season of "The Batman," and "Dora's World Adventure." DVD's may be borrowed, four at a time, for two days.

On other Circuit fronts, the current group from the Audiobook Circuit will only be available for a couple more days. So, if there's a title you're interested in, get in gear and pick it up. And, for those of you who prefer the printed page, there's a new group from the Large Print Circuit available. Items from these Circuits may be borrowed for two weeks.

At last report, Elvis has staged a '68-style comeback and returned from his unexpected hiatus and is functioning OK. Once again, his phone number is (908) 757-3280; make sure to have your library card handy, as well as any items you wish to renew, since you'll need to put in the bar-code numbers.

As the year winds down, we've been trying to do some straightening up here at the library. Part of that includes going through our lost and found box. If you think you've lost something here, it'd be a big help if you could stop by and let us know. We'll check and see if we have it. (Don't bother asking about socks; there aren't any at the moment.)

We've got room this week to clear up a common misconception. You probably know that library cards normally expire every three years. Unfortunately, some people believe that once the expiration date has been reached, the card is useless and should be tossed. In fact, library cards are easily renewable. All you need is valid proof of address (driver's license, utility bill, postmarked envelope); the process only takes a few seconds (that's a good thing) and is free (that's a very good thing). Stop by the Circulation Desk to find out more.

That's about all for this week. For more information, call us at (908) 754-7885 or check our website at www.southplainfield.lib.nj.us. Have a happy and safe new year and we'll see you in 2007 (or next Friday, if you prefer).

On Dec. 13, Superintendent of Schools Dr. Robert Rosado spoke about Assemblyman Patrick Diegnan's help in securing funds amounting to approximately $400,000 from the state for the district. He presented him with a plaque from the Board of Education "in grateful recognition of your tireless efforts on behalf of the children of South Plainfield." At the presentation Diegnan said, "I don't need the plaque, it's my job."

Buono, JFK Hospital to Host Blood Drive

Senator Barbara Buono and JFK Hospital have joined with the Blood Center of New Jersey to host a blood drive on Wednesday, Jan. 4 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the JFK Hospital Conference Room, 79 James St. in Edison.

In a collaborative effort to replenish low blood supplies common during and after the holiday season, Senator Buono and JFK plan to join forces in reaching out to an expansive segment of both the health care community and the citizens who reside in the surrounding community.

Blood banks have reported that blood is especially low this year due to corporate downsizing and the closure of automotive plants in New Jersey. The onset of the holiday season, and the shut down of schools and colleges where many blood drives take place, has caused supply levels to drop even lower.

The drive is sponsored by the Blood Center of New Jersey, a statewide blood center accredited by the American Association of Blood Banks. The Blood Center supplies more than 100,000 blood products annually to hospitals and medical centers in New Jersey while providing blood needs to hospitals on a 24-hour per day basis. The center works with civic, community and corporate leaders to coordinate blood collection.

Less than two percent of people in the region donate blood, a figure that is below the national blood donor participation rate, a study by New Jersey blood banks found.

"It's not everyday that we get the opportunity to do something that touches the lives of so many in need," said Senator Buono. "During the holiday season when blood shortages often occur, it is critically important for people to come out and donate. I wholeheartedly encourage the community to join me in donating blood on Jan. 4."

Donors must be at least 17 years of age and cannot have donated blood within the last 56 days.

Best wishes for the New Year to my past, present and future clients. Look for my weekly home tips and please call me for a complimentary market analysis in 2007.

Middle Schoolers Defeated in SPASA Basketball Tournament

South Plainfield Middle School player Sharif Ross with North Plainfield tournament winner Vincent Green.

Players in the tournament also learn an important message about the dangers of substance abuse and the effect it has on their bodies, performance and mind. They attend a classroom session with a guest speaker to discuss the effects of substance abuse and receive a commemorative t-shirt.

The fundraising event was chaired by Middle School teacher Joe Blondo and Cheryl Hughes. Middle School Principal Steve Novak said, "The tournament was a huge success with an important message. Attendance was good, especially when North Plainfield faced South Plainfield. We look forward to next year's tournament."

The Middle School hosted the annual South Plainfield Alliance for Substance Awareness Basketball Tournament on Dec. 14 co-sponsored by Joe Romer Trophy.

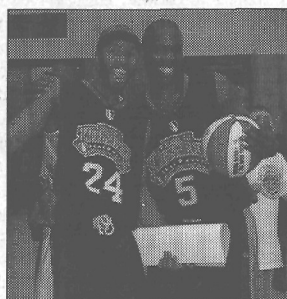

Of the four teams that participated, the boys and girls teams from South Plainfield Middle School, Sacred Heart School, East Brunswick and North Plainfield, both the SPMS teams were defeated by North Plainfield. In an exciting finale, the East Brunswick girls defeated North Plainfield and the North Plainfield boys team, led by Vincent Green, defeated East Brunswick for the championship.

The Harlem Wizards Visit Grant Elementary School

By Jane Dornick

Wizards Rocket Man and Broadway

Two members of the Harlem Wizards basketball team put on a performance at Grant School on Dec. 21. Eric Jones (aka "Broadway") and Rashaan Barner (aka "Rocket Man") entertained students with their famous "trick hoops and alley oops." The magic included the hottest basketball tricks, and humorous interactive games including the students and teachers with give-a-ways of posters, t-shirts and basketballs that were autographed after the show. The players wrapped up the event with a motivational message to students about continuing their education and being a team player.

Rashaan "Rocket" Barner graduated from William Paterson University where he was a 1st Team All-American and has been with the Wizards since 2003. He has appeared in a Nike TV commercial with LeBron James and a Reebok commercial with Jay-Z and has a 50 inch vertical leap!

Eric "Broadway" Jones grew up in the Bronx and graduated from Urbana University where he was the team captain, a World Scholar Athlete and an All-American. He played professional basketball in Mexico and also played for the Harlem Globetrotters.

The Harlem Wizards are known as one of the greatest basketball show-team organizations to ever "lace it up and let 'em fly." Each event at which the Harlem Wizards perform offers a rare combination of individual athleticism, teamwork, entertainment and community involvement. Featuring some of the top basketball talent in the world, the Wizards are so engaging that after five decades they are still packing gymnasiums all across the globe with fans eager to laugh and be amazed.

Started in 1962, sports promoter Howie Davis felt that although the Globetrotters were legendary, they were not above competition and that he could bring a fire and creativity to the Wizards to do it even better. They have played over 6,000 games in the U.S. and abroad, thrilling millions of fans along the way. The Wizards own the longest current winning streak in all of professional sports with 2,800 games. Other than the Wizards and the Globetrotters, no other entertainment basketball team has survived the test of time and made worldwide fans like these two storied franchises.

FROM THE DESK OF DEBBIE BOYLE

The new year is fast approaching, so please continue to support the Helen Street Project and hopefully the project will continue to proceed to fruition.

Thank you to Scott and Dave DelVecchio and staff of New Image Landscaping of South Plainfield for volunteering your time, expertise and equipment to relocate the underground sprinklers on the HS girls varsity softball field and thank you to Paul and Joseph Panzarella of Panzarella and Son, South Plainfield, for volunteering your time, expertise and equipment to extend, resurface and re-grade the girls softball field.

On Dec. 22 Grant Elementary students had the pleasure of being entertained by the Harlem Wizard basketball team. Thank you to Cultural Arts Chairwoman Jane Dornick for obtaining this educational program. Harlem Wizard #24, "Rocket Man" and #5 "Broadway" engaged the students and staff in a game of pass and turn. The Wizards stressed the importance of taking education to a high level for each and every student and emphasized the importance of sportsmanship and team work. The South Plainfield Education Foundation in conjunction with the Grant PTO is hoping the entire Wizard team comes back to South Plainfield as a fundraiser. This would be an exciting program for our residents. The Wizards would verse the high school boys and girls along with administration in a challenging game. Please look for this fundraiser during February/ March 2007.

The student Leadership Program, under the direction of Mary Ellen Martko, Ms. Vandemark, Mr. Baker, Ms. Zurka, Mr. Hajduk, Ms. Raimondo and Mr. Encinas and the SPSHS Student Council under the direction of Mr. Encinas hosted a senior citizens' luncheon at the high school on Dec. 19. One hundred fifty seniors attended the luncheon. They were entertained by the high school choral group, directed by Mr. Murray, the band directed by Mr. Vroom and the orchestra directed by Mr. Mikolon. Tap dancing and solo singing performed by the students brought smiles to the seniors. Thanks to the Sodexo staff for your help and support.

Thank you to Stephanie Mazurak and Samantha Granski, SPSHS students and chairpersons, for participating and collecting Yoplait Pink Lids for Cancer in the Save Lids to Save Lives program. There were 875 lids collected since Oct. 15, and these students are commended for all their volunteering efforts and time for this extremely worthwhile program.

Congratulations to the Riley School PTSO on the pasta dinner that was held Dec. 15, that attracted 300 people. Thank you to Principal Al Czech for all your help and involvement.

Our condolences and prayers reach out to the Kaneps Family and our thoughts and prayers continue to reach out to Nancy Grenier as she heals.

Congratulations to all the instrumental band and chorus holiday concerts that were performed by the elementary, middle and high school students and to all the people who came out and supported our students.

Thank you to Kevin Murtagh for all your time and effort.

A happy, healthy New Year 2007 to everyone.
